

DeGaulle's Proposal Rejected

Challenge Widens U. S.-Paris Rift

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's call for an international conference to bring peace to Indochina and his new challenge to United States leadership of the West drew cold rebuffs today from Washington and West Germany. American officials brushed aside as wholly unacceptable De Gaulle's proposal for a new 14-nation conference — with the United States, Russia, Red China and France as the principals — to settle the woes of South and North Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

Reject Contention

They also rejected De Gaulle's contention that a military solution in South Viet Nam is impossible. They said the United States cannot consider another Indochina conference until a new military balance is created in South Viet Nam.

The French leader's sharp notification to Washington that its postwar dominance of the West had ended hardened the impression among U.S. diplomats that the rift between De Gaulle and the United States is beyond healing.

In Bonn, De Gaulle's reassertion of his design for an independent Europe based on French-West German political coordination also drew stern rejections.

Officials in Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government repeated their insistence that West German policy is based firmly on a closely integrated alliance with the United States and ultimately partnership between a unified Europe and America.

Agrees With Changes

However, former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, De Gaulle's co-architect of postwar French-West German cooperation, said he agreed with the French leader's statements regarding various changes in the world's political structure.

De Gaulle told his semiannual news conference Thursday: "The division of the world between two camps led by Washington and Moscow no longer corresponds to the new world situation."

"We must however maintain the alliance with America because in the North Atlantic, both Europe and America are mutually interested as long as the Soviet menace persists. But the reasons for our subordination to America are being eliminated one after the other."

West German officials said "subordination" did not describe relations between Europe and the United States in the Atlantic Alliance.

U.S. officials were irritated by De Gaulle's likening of Western Europe's growing independence to the weakening of Soviet control over the Communist bloc. They said that while the Soviet Union followed a deliberate policy of centralized control of the Communist world, U.S. policy since World War II was dedicated to building up Western Europe to a position of partnership in the Atlantic community.

Legislature Expected to Meet On Reapportionment During Dec.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The prospect of a pre-Christmas special session of the Legislature to redistribute its seats had reinforcement today from Gov. Rockefeller's Citizens Committee on Reapportionment.

The committee promised the governor Thursday that its report would be in his hands by Dec. 1, at the latest.

Rockefeller was informed in a letter from Chairman William Hughes Mulligan, dean of the Fordham University Law School.

The seven-member committee held its first formal meeting in New York City Thursday. It has been understood that the governor and other Republican leaders have settled on the idea of a special session after the November election.

Rockefeller has allocated an emergency fund of $155,000 to the committee and has set aside space in the State Office Building in Manhattan for the committee's use.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled June 15 that the present method of apportioning seats in the State Legislature was unconstitutional and that seats in both houses must be distributed solely on the basis of population.

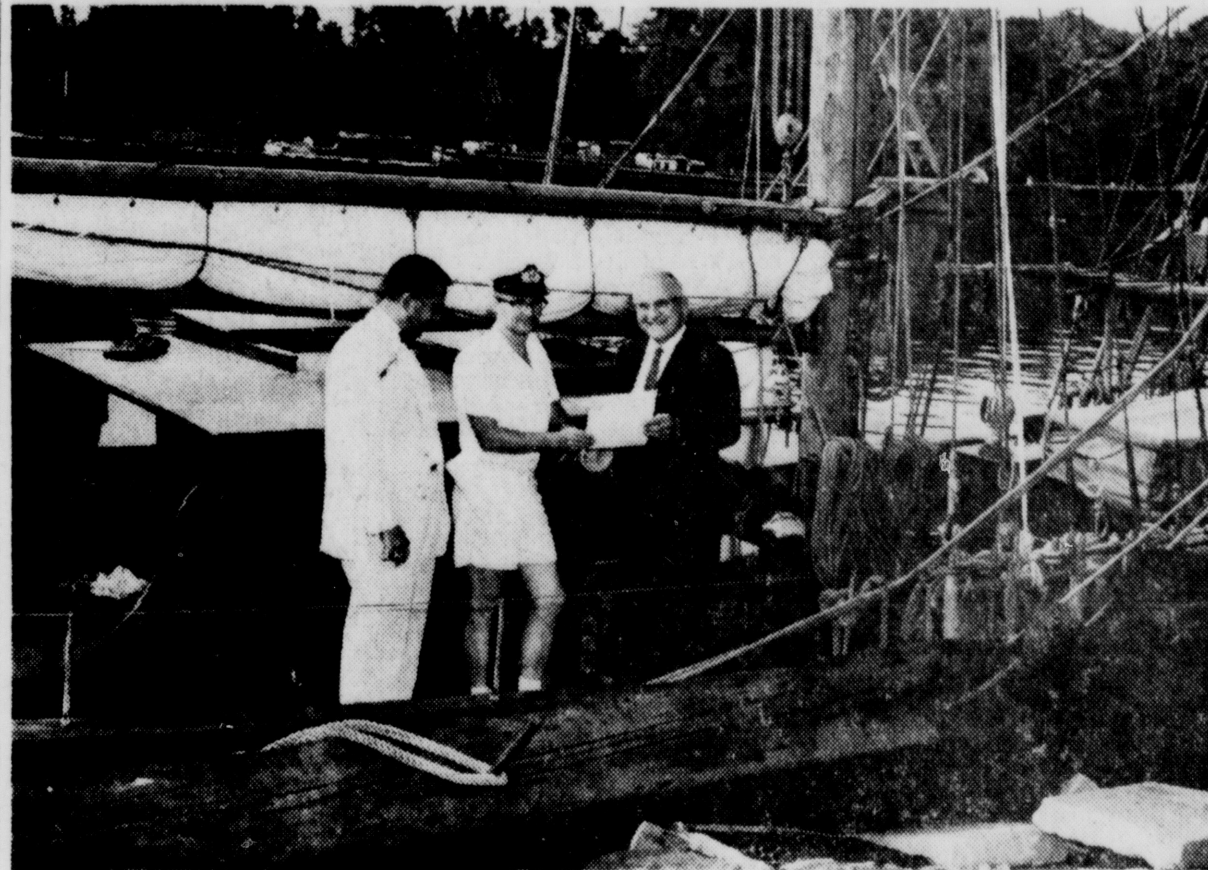

Late last month, Rockefeller met with leaders of the Republican majority in the Legislature and with other GOP officials of the state and announced afterward that he would appoint the committee to study the question. The committee's report, Rockefeller said, would form the basis for action by a special session of the Legislature he would summon on reapportionment.

A post-election session would keep the controversial question out of the regular session beginning next January and also would assure that the present Republican-controlled houses would enact a GOP reapportionment plan for the 1966 election, even if Democrats gained control of the Legislature in November.

The Democrats would be blocked from upsetting the Republican plan by Rockefeller's veto power.

A special three-judge federal court is to conduct a hearing Monday on Democratic arguments for reapportionment before the election this year. Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz will push for a delay, arguing that the question is too important to rush into.

Charter Commission Considers Changes

Kingston's new charter proposal, due to be on the November election ballot, is to be filed with the Ulster County Board of Elections on or before Aug. 3, Robert E. Davis, chairman of the Charter Revision Commission, announced today.

Still concerned with proposed changes, the commission is to devote as much time as possible to them, between now and filing time, and the changes will not be announced until the final draft is ready for filing, Davis said.

The final draft is to be filed with City Clerk Walter S. Foster, who forwards to the election board formal notice of the question to be on the November election ballot. It will deal with whether the proposed new charter shall be adopted.

Under Consideration

Under consideration by the commission since two recent public hearings on the charter dealing mainly with whether the city shall have a seven-member, unpaid Common Council elected by the city at large, or shall continue with direct ward representation, and whether the mayor and deputy mayor shall be elected jointly on the one ticket, for four, instead of two-year terms. Aldermen would also serve four years.

The deputy mayor would replace the present alderman-at-large. Sentiment was heavy at the hearings in favor of retaining paid aldermen on a ward basis, but members of the commission held that a council elected at large is in keeping with the modern trend, and would eliminate later trouble with redistricting. They felt also that many competent persons would be willing to serve on the council without pay, except for payment of expenses.

Other Opposition

Opposed also at the hearings was proposed election on the one ticket of a mayor and deputy mayor, but the commission felt that a mayor would gain an advantage by having an assistant of the same political faith.

Commission Chairman Davis said the commission still has "a few subjects to consider," along with minor technical changes, corrections and deletions. All proposed changes, he said, are to be given "utmost consideration" between now and the date of filing.

It is possible that the revised charter could be filed before Aug. 3, he said, but more likely the commission might require as much time as possible before filing.

The charter, as presented for hearing, proposes that the mayor head most of the city's five-member boards, it creates a Department of Public Service and Recreation, instead of the present Public Works Department. It provides for a Financial Advisory Board, and an Advisory Board of Assessment Review, of three members each, new budget procedure, and lists many other changes.

Shriners Killed In Plane Crash On Way to Parley

HARRIMAN, N.Y. (AP) — Two Ohio businessmen and the mayor of Mansfield, Ohio, are dead as a result of a plane crash near the former estate of ex-Gov. Averill Harriman.

Killed in the crash Thursday were Charles Scott, 50-year-old mayor of Mansfield and father of five children, James McGinty, 56, also of Mansfield and pilot of the plane, and Edmund Brumigan, 50, of Novelty, Ohio.

The three Ohioans were reportedly flying to New York to take part in the Shrine convention.

Police said the single-engine Cessna 172 Skylark had made an emergency landing on the Harriman estate, apparently to get gasoline. McGinty was trying to take off on a dirt road at the time of the crash.

The plane hit a tree, continued down the road some 175 yards, hit more trees, and then overturned, authorities said. McGinty and Brumigan died at the scene and Scott died five hours later in a Tuxedo hospital.

Divorce Settlement Largest

$16 Million Goes To 'Frugal' Wife

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For 55 years of marriage, Mrs. Ednah Race Capron testified, she had to make many of her own clothes, listened to her husband complain every day "of all the unpleasant things that ever happened," and was denied a nurse's care when she was bedridden last year with a broken leg.

Didn't Want Her

Today, at the age of 74, Mrs. Capron has an interlocutory divorce decree and a $16 million settlement, believed to be the largest ever.

Mrs. Capron, granted the decree in superior court Thursday, charged cruelty against her husband, multi-millionaire George H. Capron, 79. She said he told her last year, when she broke her leg, that he would give a million dollars if someone would take her off his hands.

She Didn't Know

At the time, she testified, she didn't know he had even a million dollars, much less the $30 million her attorneys discovered after she filed suit for divorce. Her husband had always kept his riches a secret from her, she said.

Mrs. Capron testified to a life of frugal living, dating from her marriage to Capron in 1909, when he was a young baseball player. She said she was denied servants, though they lived in an $85,000 home in Newport Beach, Calif.

When she broke her leg last year, she had to pay for medical care from her own savings, she added.

Builds Up Riches

Over the years, attorneys said, Capron built up an estate worth $30 million, chiefly through property trades.

Under terms of the divorce settlement, Mrs. Capron received the Newport Beach home, a $180,000 apartment house and 860 acres of land at Laguna Niguel, a valuable residential development south of Laguna Beach on the Southern California coast.

Capron, who reportedly wants to keep the land, was given an option to purchase it back with a cashier's check for $16 million between Jan. 30 and Feb. 28, 1965.

One of the highest divorce settlements previously recorded was that granted Greg Sherwood Dodge, divorced wife of the late Horace E. Dodge Jr. Her attorney said she received $9 million.

TESTIFIES AGAINST HUSBAND — Mrs. Ednah R. Capron, 74, is accompanied by investigator James Leah and nurse, Ruth Lehman, right, as she goes to testify in her divorce suit in Los Angeles. She told the court that her husband of 55 years rancher George H. Capron, 79, said he would give a million dollars if someone would take her off his hands. She added she had no idea he actually had that kind of money. (AP Wirephoto)

State Upholds Bid For Drought Help

Following application by the Ulster County Disaster Committee to have Ulster County declared a drought disaster area, J. J. Sugden, chairman of U.S.D.A. State Disaster Committee on Thursday afternoon announced that the application had been approved by the State committee.

Forwarded to Governor

Recommendations have been forwarded to Governor Rockefeller's office requesting him to ask Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to declare Ulster County along with four more counties in New York state as Disaster Areas due to severe drought conditions.

The four other counties approved were Delaware, Dutchess, Warren and Herkimer, which together with Ulster County brings the total to 19 counties in the state, since the first group was designated 10 days ago.

If Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman declares these counties to be disaster areas it will permit farmers to graze and cut hay from Conservation Reserve lands and diverted areas.

Application to have Ulster County declared a disaster area was made Wednesday following a meeting of the Ulster County Disaster Committee. At that meeting the local situation was discussed at length and at the conclusion of the meeting it was determined to seek drought aid.

Ulster County has been fortunate in spots to have local showers which gave temporary relief but in the main county crops, particularly hay, has suffered.

Portions of southern Ulster were greeted by a heavy downpour Thursday afternoon, giving temporary relief to some areas. Deep rooted crops have not suffered as much as shallow crops such as hay but there has been

Chinese, Malays Fight Four Days, Death Toll Is 19

SINGAPORE (AP) — Chinese and Malays fought for the fourth day in Singapore today, raising the death toll to 19. But police said the racial clashes were getting smaller and less frequent.

More than a dozen new incidents occurred during the daily morning break in the curfew to permit food purchases. Police and troops quickly restored order and herded stragglers off the streets at gunpoint.

Another curfew break was scheduled for the afternoon. Many office workers went to their jobs during the morning break.

A government spokesman said the same curfew schedule would remain in force Saturday but the situation is reviewed each afternoon.

About 400 Injured

Official casualty figures showed 197 injured since the riots began, but the unofficial count placed the injured at close to 400.

More than 1,400 persons, mostly curfew violators, have been arrested by the 7,000 police and combat troops trying to check the riots on the island.

A federal police spokesman said the government was encouraged because smaller groups were involved in this morning's fighting.

Disorder Dwindles In 2 Areas

Wagner Formula Not Pleasing All

NEW YORK (AP) — White youths hurled missiles at Negroes and whites picketed Police Headquarters during the night while disorders dwindled in Harlem and Brooklyn, scenes of five nights of strife.

The picketing of the headquarters, in Lower Manhattan, was sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality, which accused the police of brutality and demanded the ouster of Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy.

An egg thrown by the whites who opposed the CORE group narrowly missed Murphy. A rock hit Police Inspector Henry Yack, 59, in the right eye. He was taken to a hospital.

Police protected the men picketing them by setting up wooden barricades to keep the whites at a distance.

Crowd Swells to 1,500

None of the pickets was hit. The anti-picket crowd swelled to 1,500 at its peak. Most just watched the activity. A fraction of them — mostly teenagers from the Italian-American neighborhood surrounding the headquarters — jeered and hurled objects.

After three hours of picketing, the CORE demonstrators were escorted in three groups to nearby subway stations. They were trailed all the way by hostile residents of the lower East Side neighborhood, who continued to hurl missiles at both police and pickets. A policeman was hit on the shoulder with a rock, treated at hospital and released.

Seven Whites Arrested

Police arrested seven whites who were in an auto from which an anti-Negro placard had been flung. Six men and youths were charged with disorderly conduct. One boy was charged with juvenile delinquency and released in custody of his parents.

The seven were the first whites arrested since racial disorders broke out in the city Saturday night.

Peace returned to Harlem in Manhattan and almost complete peace to the predominantly Negro Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, after five nights of rioting, gunfire, looting, vandalism and hundreds of arrests.

In Brooklyn, several stores were looted and some bricks were thrown.

A total of 23 persons, including 1 white man and 22 Negroes,

Automobile, Railroad Business Flourishing

NEW YORK (AP) — The big three automakers are earning more money than ever before.

General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. reported Thursday that profits and sales soared to record levels in the second quarter and first half of this year. Ford Motor Co. issued a similar report earlier in the week.

General Motors' sales and earnings were the highest ever reported by any company.

Its chairman, Frederic G. Donner, and president, John F. Gordon, attributed the surge to expansion in economic activity and resulting consumer confidence.

The Big Three's reports of great prosperity came while they were negotiating with the United Auto Workers on new labor contracts.

General Motors earned $602

First half earnings of the No. 1 automaker totaled $1,138,000,000, or $3.98 a share, compared with $878 million, or $3.07 a share, in the 1963 first half, which was the previous record.

Sales totaled $5,082,000,000 in the 1964 second quarter against $4,516,000,000 a year earlier. First half sales of $9,868,000,000 compared with $8,665,000,000 in the 1963 first half, the former record.

The picketing of the headquarters, in Lower Manhattan, was sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality, which accused the police of brutality and demanded the ouster of Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy.

An egg thrown by the whites who opposed the CORE group narrowly missed Murphy.

A rock hit Police Inspector Henry Yack, 59, in the right eye. He was taken to a hospital.

Police protected the men picketing them by setting up wooden barricades to keep the whites at a distance.

Crowd Swells to 1,500

None of the pickets was hit. The anti-picket crowd swelled to 1,500 at its peak. Most just watched the activity. A fraction of them — mostly teenagers from the Italian - American neighborhood surrounding the headquarters — jeered and hurled objects.

After three hours of picketing, the CORE demonstrators were escorted in three groups to nearby subway stations. They were trailed all the way by hostile residents of the lower East Side neighborhood, who continued to hurl missiles at both police and pickets. A policeman was hit on the shoulder with a rock, treated at hospital and released.

Seven Whites Arrested

Police arrested seven whites who were in an auto from which an anti-Negro placard had been flung. Six men and youths were charged with disorderly conduct. One boy was charged with juvenile delinquency and released in custody of his parents.

The seven were the first whites arrested since racial disorders broke out in the city Saturday night.

Peace returned to Harlem in Manhattan and almost complete peace to the predominantly Negro Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, after five nights of rioting, gunfire, looting, vandalism and hundreds of arrests.

In Brooklyn, several stores were looted and some bricks were thrown.

Automobile, Railroad Business Flourishing

NEW YORK (AP)—The big three automakers are earning more money than ever before.

General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. reported Thursday that profits and sales soared to record levels in the second quarter and first half of this year. Ford Motor Co. issued a similar report earlier in the week.

General Motors' sales and earnings were the highest ever reported by any company.

Its chairman, Frederic G. Donner, and president, John F. Gordon, attributed the surge to expansion in economic activity and resulting consumer confidence.

The Big Three's reports of great prosperity came while they were negotiating with the United Auto Workers on new labor contracts.

General Motors earned $602

million, equal to $2.11 a share, in the three months ended June 30, compared with $464 million, or $1.62 a share, in the second quarter of 1963. The previous record was $536 million, or $1.87 a share, in the 1964 first quarter.

First half earnings of the No. 1 automaker totaled $1,138,000,000, or $3.98 a share, compared with $878 million, or $3.07 a share, in the 1963 first half, which was the previous record.

Sales totaled $5,082,000,000 in the 1964 second quarter against $4,516,000,000 a year earlier. First half sales of $9,868,000,000 compared with $8,663,000,000 in the 1963 first half, the former record.

Chrysler, third ranking automaker, earned $60.6 million, equal to $1.61 a share, in the three months ended June 30 against $41.7 million, or $1.13 a share, a year earlier. First half (Continued on Page 8, Col. 8)

Antipoverty Bill Passes Senate 2-1

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's bill to carry out his war on poverty has won Senate approval by nearly a 2-1 margin.

The battleground now shifts to the House, where the Rules Committee is expected to vote early next week on a similar proposal to be considered the following week.

The measure had come under heavy attack from Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican presidential nominee, as a "hodgepodge of programs treating only the results, not the causes, of poverty."

"It seems designed to achieve the single objective of securing votes," he said in a minority report on the bill.

Although Goldwater did not enter into the two days of Senate debate on the measure, a majority of the 33 Republican senators joined him in voting against it.

How Voting Went

On the 62-33 roll call Thursday night that sent the bill to the House, 52 Democrats voted for and 11 against passage. The Republican line-up was 10 for and 22 against. Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., the only absent GOP member, was announced as against passage.

Southern Democrats split about evenly. Before the $947.5 million bill was passed, two states rights amendments were adopted giving governors a veto over establishment of some of the proposed projects in their states.

A third, which would have let governors veto aid for community action programs, was defeated by a single vote. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, also won adoption of an amendment shaving $15 million off the total originally authorized for the first year. This was cut from $50 million proposed for loans and grants to combat poverty in rural areas.

Mostly Intact

But the many-sided bill emerged from the Senate substantially intact.

TUPPER LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Officials of the organizations that took part in Operation Sun Drum II, a three-day test of Civil Defense survival preparedness, are "generally well pleased" with the outcome of the exercise.

John J. Whalen, director of Summit Veterans Hospital at this Adirondack village, said after the conference that the participants agreed the test was a success and had been conducted with a minimum of confusion.

The exercise ended with a simulated air-crash rescue operation and a demonstration by 16 Civil Air Patrol planes.

Palladium Sees Hayley Mills as New Sex Bomb

LONDON (AP)—Hayley Mills cast off the Pollyanna look today and emerged as a long-legged sex bomb that set London's theater world sizzling.

It sizzled, too, for Judy Garland, who cast aside her doctor's orders to make a roaring comeback in her old home at the London Palladium.

It happened at "The Night of 100 Stars," the midnight matinee where British and American show business annually goes crazy for the cause of theater charities.

Gloria Swanson and Merle Oberon were happy to walk on as extras. Rita Moreno hoofed it in the world's most-expensive chorus line.

Hayley was just another chorine, too, until Zsa Zsa Gabor balked at climbing into a conjurer's box and vanishing.

"Darling," she said, "I could never be shut up in a box, except with the man I love."

Hayley, 18 now, took over. Filling every inch of a tight, spangled and plumed leotard, she drew a chorus of whistles from the audience as she vanished and reappeared.

Zsa Zsa introduced the Beatles. Harnessed and wired, they soared over the stage singing Mary Martin's hit from "Peter Pan." "I'm flying."

Judy's big moment came in the finale.

A few hours earlier she had left a nursing home where she had been resting since Monday. She was booked just to walk on and said her doctor had forbidden her to sing.

The audience yelled for a song. She gave them "Swanee." They sang with her, then cheered their heads off.

Judy sank in a deep curtsy with tears in her eyes. "Thank you," she said. "I'm home."

It was at the Palladium that she made a big comeback in 1951.

Wawarsing Crash Kills Professor, Two Are Injured

A 53-year-old college professor was killed and a Spring Glen couple suffered multiple injuries Thursday at 5:30 p. m. as the result of a traffic accident involving four vehicles on Route 209 about 2.1 miles south of Route 52, Town of Wawarsing.

The highway fatality, the 19th in Ulster County this year, was the second to occur in the Ellenville area yesterday.

State Police Sgt. Donald H. Paulson of the Ellenville substation, said John M. Keller, Ph.D., a professor of philosophy at Columbia Union College, Takoma Park, Md., was the operator of one of the vehicles involved in the spectacular crash.

Death Accidental

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp, Kerhonkson, said Dr. Keller died of a crushed chest and extensive internal injuries. The coroner ruled the death accidental.

Injured in the crash and taken to Veterans Memorial Hospital were F. S. Griffith, 56, of Spring Glen, and his wife, Mary Griffith, 55. Griffith, operator of a car involved in the mishap, suffered chest injuries, and Mrs. Griffith sustained injuries of the hips.

Two tractor-trailers were involved in the accident. One was a 1956 tractor owned and operated by Uwe Kuhn, 25, of 32 1/2 Division Street, Norwiche. The other tractor was owned by the Red Bird Truck Rental Corp., of Whippany, N. J., and operated by Poye Tyler, 28, of Stanhope, N. J.

Driver Is Fined

Trooper J. E. Kelly, who investigated, summoned Kuhn on a charge of following too close. Kuhn pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Raymond Lawrie, Town of Wawarsing, and paid a $10 fine, authorities said.

According to Trooper Kelly's report, Kuhn was driving north on Route 209 behind Griffith's sedan, which was slowing to allow a car ahead of him make a right turn into a driveway. Kuhn, troopers said, applied the brakes of the tractor and the vehicle left the east shoulder of the highway and struck Griffith's car on the right rear.

The impact, troopers said, pushed Griffith's car across the highway and it sideswiped the smaller car operated by Keller, who was traveling south. The latter vehicle veered off the west side of Route 209, crossed the pavement and came to a stop in a field.

The Griffith car, troopers reported, was struck on the right side by the tractor-trailer operated by Tyler, who was driving in a southerly direction.

11th Fatal This Month

Professor Keller was born in Philadelphia, Pa., June 11, 1911, a son of the late John and Ida Smith Keller. His wife, the former Marion Gibbs died some time ago. He was a veteran of World War II.

Early Thursday, Neal Post, 17-year-old City College of New York student, died at Veteran's Memorial Hospital, of massive skull fractures. He was a passenger in a car driven by Stephen Garod, 19, of 7946, Hare Avenue, Jacksonville, Fla., when the vehicle overturned off Samsonville Road near Pataukunk Road, Town of Wawarsing at 6 p. m. Wednesday.

Post, a son of Bernard and Fay Levine Post of 1020 Boynton Avenue, the Bronx, was employed for the summer as a bus boy at the Pine Grove Hotel, Kerhonkson, which is operated by Betty and Jack Schloss.

Change in Power Rate To Save $1.5 Million

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—An estimated saving of $1.5 million in the electric bills for industrial and commercial customers will result this year from a change in Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. rate policy approved by the Public Service Commission.

The PSC said Thursday that Niagara Mohawk could eliminate from its rate schedules a provision by which rates were raised or lowered to reflect changes in the price of coal.

The rate-schedule change affects 103,000 business customers. Residential bills are not involved.

The commission estimated that industrial and business customers would pay $1.5 million less for electricity this year than they did last year as a result of the change.

Stabilization of coal prices was given as the reason for the change in billing policy.

Killed in Crash

MORRISVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—

William C. Marcellus, 24, of Morrisville, was killed last night when his truck failed to negotiate a curve and overturned along a town road near this Central New York community.

A call for sermons Sunday on "calm, reason and understanding" was issued in behalf of 7-500 clergymen of all faiths.

Deputy Mayor Edward F. Cavanagh Jr. took the first step Thursday in carrying out Wagner's program.

He named a six-man staff to help him review the Police Department's handling of complaints against policemen. Two Negro lawyers assigned to the office of the corporation counsel, the city's top legal officer, were among those named.

A major demand of Negro leaders is for a board composed of persons not connected with the Police Department to review charges of brutality and other complaints against policemen.

Negro Picketers

were arrested during the night and early today in the 79th precinct, which covers most of the Bedford - Stuyvesant section. This compared with 116 arrests in the previous 24 hours.

Charges against the Negroes included burglary, malicious mischief and disorderly conduct.

The white man was charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. Police said he had cursed Negroes and thrown various objects at them in front of his home.

A police officer said the Brooklyn arrests were in isolated incidents and did not involve any real racial clash.

The city's 26,000-member police force did not relax because of the sudden call.

Deputy Commissioner Walter Arm said police commands in Harlem and Bedford-Stuyvesant were being "stacked" with men to cope with any emergency this weekend.

"We are prepared for any eventuality and will use whatever legal means or legal force is necessary to maintain order should violence erupt," he said.

CORE had asked police for protection of its pickets. A crowd of white teen-agers had thrown missiles at demonstrators picketing headquarters the night before.

Appeal by Priest
Thursday night, the Rev. Robert Perrella of the Roman Catholic Church of the Most Sacred Blood near police headquarters, appealed to the white teen-agers and the spectators to go home.

The priest said he had been ordered to the scene by his superiors "to make sure none of the neighborhood young men get into trouble."

He later told newsmen: "They're only a bunch of kids. The cameras excite them. It's mass psychology. Most of them don't know what they're saying. They're all actors."

Reject Wagner Formula
A number of Negro leaders in the city have rejected the racial peace formula that Mayor Robert F. Wagner proposed Wednesday night. "Too little and too late" was a typical comment.

But the mayor's office said his talk had brought hundreds of congratulatory telephone calls and telegrams, including a message of support from Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York.

Wawarsing Crash Kills Professor, Two Are Injured

A 53-year-old college professor was killed and a Spring Glen couple suffered multiple injuries Thursday at 5:30 p. m. as the result of a traffic accident involving four vehicles on Route 209 about 2.1 miles south of Route 52, Town of Wawarsing.

The highway fatality, the 19th in Ulster County this year, was the second to occur in the Ellenville area yesterday.

State Police Sgt. Donald H. Paulson of the Ellenville substation, said John M. Keller, Ph.D., a professor of philosophy at Columbia Union College, Takoma Park, Md., was the operator of one of the vehicles involved in the spectacular crash.

Death Accidental

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp, Kerhonkson, said Dr. Keller died of a crushed chest and extensive internal injuries. The coroner ruled the death accidental.

Injured in the crash and taken to Veterans Memorial Hospital were F. S. Griffith, 56, of Spring Glen, and his wife, Mary Griffith, 55. Griffith, operator of a car involved in the mishap, suffered chest injuries, and Mrs. Griffith sustained injuries of the hips.

Two tractor-trailers were involved in the accident. One was a 1956 tractor owned and operated by Uwe Kuhn, 25, of 32 1/2 Division Street, Norwich. The other tractor was owned by the Red Bird Truck Rental Corp., of Whippany, N. J., and operated by Poye Tyler, 28, of Stanhope, N. J.

Driver Is Fined

Trooper J. E. Kelly, who investigated, summoned Kuhn on a charge of following too close. Kuhn pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Raymond Lawrence, Town of Wawarsing, and paid a $10 fine, authorities said.

According to Trooper Kelly's report, Kuhn was driving north on Route 209 behind Griffith's sedan, which was slowing to make a right turn into a driveway.

Kuhn, troopers said, applied the brakes of the tractor and the vehicle left the east shoulder of the highway and struck Griffith's car on the right rear.

The impact, troopers said, pushed Griffith's car across the highway and it sideswiped the small car operated by Keller, who was traveling south. The latter vehicle veered off the west side of Route 209, crossed the pavement and came to a stop in a field.

The Griffith car, troopers reported, was struck on the right side by the tractor-trailer operated by Tyler, who was driving in a southerly direction."

11th Fatal This Month

Professor Keller was born in Philadelphia, Pa., June 11, 1911, a son of the late John and Ida Smith Keller. His wife, the former Marion Gibbs died some time ago. He was a veteran of World War II.

Funeral services will be held Monday at the Takoma Funeral Home, 254 Carroll Street (North), Takoma Park, Md. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery, Prince George, Md.

Professor Keller was the county's 19th victim of traffic accidents this year and the 11th victim this month.

Early Thursday, Neal Post, 17-year-old City College of New York student, died at Veteran's Memorial Hospital, of massive skull fractures. He was a passenger in a car driven by Stephen Garod, 19, of 7946, Hare Avenue, Jacksonville, Fla., when the vehicle overturned off Samsonville Road near Pataunkunk Road, Town of Wawarsing at 6 p. m. Wednesday.

Post, a son of Bernard and Fay Levine Post, of 1020 Boynton Avenue, the Bronx, was employed for the summer as a bus boy at the Pine Grove Hotel, Kerhonkson, which is operated by Betty and Jack Schloss.

Change in Power Rate
To Save $1.5 Million
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—An estimated saving of $1.5 million in the electric bills for industrial and commercial customers will result this year from a change in Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. rate policy approved by the Public Service Commission.

The PSC said Thursday that Niagara Mohawk could eliminate from its rate schedules a provision by which rates were raised or lowered to reflect changes in the price of coal.

The rate-schedule change affects 103,000 business customers. Residential bills are not involved.

The commission estimated that industrial and business customers would pay $1.5 million less for electricity this year than they did last year as a result of the change.

Stabilization of coal prices was given as the reason for the change in billing policy.

'Bath Coup' Is Specific Play

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The Bath coup derives its name from the seaside resort of Bath in England. The play was apparently invented by some nameless whist played in the last century.

Unlike other coups which are likely to have several forms, the Bath coup is a specific play. Here is a hand played by Andy Gabrilovitch of Washington that illustrates this play beautifully.

West opened the king of spades and Andy let it hold. That, specifically, is the Bath coup. You hold off a king lead with ace-jack and one or more small cards. If the suit is continued, you make both your ace and jack. Otherwise, your opponent must shift and give you time to develop some other suit.

West shifted to the five of clubs. He had noted that his partner had played the deuce of spades.

Now Andy refused the club finesse. He had something else to do first, which was to pull trumps and then knock out the ace of diamonds.

Andy did this. East was in with the ace of diamonds, but Andy was able to win the spade return and discard the jack of spades on one of dummy's high diamonds. Of course, he had to lose a trick to the king of clubs later, but one spade, one diamond and one club added up to only three tricks for the defense.

Woman Donates Records, Books To City Library

A collection of phonograph records and books has been donated to the Kingston Library by Miss Ann Schneider, of 43 Clinton Avenue.

Miss Schneider said the collection was gathered over a number of years. She and her family have had a long and continuing interest in music, and Miss Schneider studied the piano for several years.

The record collection contains many collector's items on the original 78 rpm discs. The collection is classical with emphasis on Wagner, Liszt, Brahms and Beethoven. Many renowned performers are represented in the gift.

The books consisted of biographies of composers, scores, musical reference materials and some German language books.

Don Sager, library director, noted that this gift is a welcome addition to the library's music collection, which is certainly one of the best in the area. The library has a growing music department with recordings, scores and reference materials, much of which the public cannot gain access to because the library lacks space and funds for equipment.

Many libraries, Sager explained, have a special room set aside for their music department, with scores, recordings and phonograph players with earphones. This becomes a cultural center for people who appreciate music and for music students.

At the present time, Sager explained, the library has about 1,000 musical scores (i.e., sheet music) stored in a closet in one corner of the library workroom. This collection is catalogued, but almost unusable because of its location.

No funds are available for more equipment or space, Sager said, so the public does not benefit from this rich collection.

'Bath Coup' Is Specific Play

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The Bath coup derives its name from the seaside resort of Bath in England. The play was apparently invented by some nameless whist played in the last century.

Unlike other coups which are likely to have several forms, the Bath coup is a specific play.

Here is a hand played by Andy Gabrilovitch of Washington that illustrates this play beautifully.

West opened the king of spades and Andy let it hold. That, specifically, is the Bath coup. You hold off a king lead with ace-jack and one or more small cards. If the suit is continued, you make both your ace and jack. Otherwise, your opponent must shift and give you time to develop some other suit.

West shifted to the five of clubs. He had noted that his partner had played the deuce of spades.

Now Andy refused the club finesse. He had something else to do first, which was to pull trumps and then knock out the ace of diamonds.

Andy did this. East was in with the ace of diamonds, but Andy was able to win the spade return and discard the jack of spades on one of dummy's high diamonds. Of course, he had to lose a trick to the king of clubs later, but one spade, one diamond and one club added up to only three tricks for the defense.

Woman Donates Records, Books To City Library

A collection of phonograph records and books has been donated to the Kingston Library by Miss Ann Schneider, of 43 Clinton Avenue.

Miss Schneider said the collection was gathered over a number of years. She and her family have had a long and continuing interest in music, and Miss Schneider studied the piano for several years.

The record collection contains many collector's items on the original 78 rpm discs. The collection is classical with emphasis on Wagner, Liszt, Brahms and Beethoven. Many renowned performers are represented in the gift.

The books consisted of biographies of composers, scores, musical reference materials and some German language books.

Don Sager, library director, noted that this gift is a welcome addition to the library's music collection, which is certainly one of the best in the area. The library has a growing music department with recordings, scores and reference materials, much of which the public cannot gain access to because the library lacks space and funds for equipment.

Many libraries, Sager explained, have a special room set aside for their music department, with scores, recordings and phonograph players with earphones. This becomes a cultural center for people who appreciate music and for music students.

At the present time, Sager explained, the library has about 1,000 musical scores (i.e., sheet music) stored in a closet in one corner of the library workroom. This collection is catalogued, but almost unusable because of its location.

No funds are available for more equipment or space, Sager said, so the public does not benefit from this rich collection.

ONE MORE CONVENTION

It is not the jolliest thought in the world that we have another national party convention to go through. After a month or so of respite, the Democrats will be whooping it up in Atlantic City. Once again, millions of Americans will groggily watch as hour after hour of often dull yet somehow fascinating political drama unfolds.

"Dull" is not said in cynicism. There just is no evading the fact that, except when enlivened by a nip-and-tuck race for a presidential nomination, convention proceedings have few dramatic highlights.

Conventions are nonetheless momentous events in our national life. Like it or not, this is our way of choosing the men from among whom the nation's chief executive for the next four years will be drawn. And sometimes, as in this year's Republican convention, there is a kind of cumulative drama that does not depend on colorful events for its impact but emerges from the significance of what is being done. In the convention just past, one of our two major parties chose a broad new course. The drama of that will continue to unfold in the months and years ahead.

No such fundamental change of direction is to be anticipated at the coming Democratic convention. Nor will there be the natural dramatic ingredient of a trial for the presidential nomination; the top spot is already filled. The only overt element of drama lies in the question of who will be the president's running mate.

There will, however, be the drama of confrontation between widely variant philosophies. The Democrats will reaffirm their liberalism, and will attempt to put the newly dominant GOP conservatism in the worst possible light. Once they have done this, we will be in for what may yet turn out to be one of the most bitterly fought campaigns of modern times.

MIDSUMMER SAG

For those of middle age who would like to stay trim and fit, this is one of the most dangerous times of the year. It is the time of midsummer sag, only a bit less to be feared than the time of holiday bulge. In fact, the danger of holiday bulge may be less great because it is so obvious.

The insidious thing about midsummer sag is that it comes gradually, rather than in one burst of festive gluttony. Between-meal snacks, often accompanied by fattening beverages, tend to precede backyard cookouts featuring such intemperances as potato salad and corn on the cob. The peril is compounded by seasonal torpor that discourages exercise. So beware: the time of midsummer sag is upon us!

Wallace quits the race and says he'll back the most conservative candidate in support of states' rights. That makes his endorsement a non-mysterious mystery.

MEANINGLESS SIGNAL

The car's right-turn signal was blinking as it came down the long slope that feeds into the superhighway. The signal had apparently been flicked on out of habit, for using it at such a time was pointless; there was no other way to go but along the gently curving feeder lane.

The car moved into the highway traffic and was caught up in its swift pace. The right-turn signal was still blinking. Noting that no traffic was coming up fast behind him, the driver eased over into the left lane. And still his right-turn signal continued to wink its red—and now wholly deceptive—warning.

A driver coming up behind hesitated, waiting for the car with the flashing right turn signal to move into the right-hand lane. After a mile or so, the car behind chanced it and swept to the right to pass. It went on down the highway. Presently another car came up behind the car with the winking right-turn signal, and hung back awaiting the signaled turn that never came.

The point of all this is simply that auto-

'These Days'

COTTON PICKING VERSUS LINT PICKING

Unless there is a change in Republican behavior, we can look forward to a campaign this coming Autumn between the cotton-pickin' Democrats and the lint-pickin' Republicans. The Democrats will go about their business of rolling up bales of votes. The Republicans will spend their energies in sterile logic-chopping about the exact meaning of words. And it will bore everybody as it obviously was already boring the man who sat behind me on the plane. "You want to know what an extremist is?" he asked of his companion. "An extremist is anybody who has an opinion."

And that's about it, as the word is tossed about. So let's try to get to opinions, and forget the dirty adjectives. When Goldwater is arguing that "extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice," he is thinking of John Hancock signing his name to the Declaration of Independence in letters so bold that King George III can see it without spectacles. When Rockefeller uses the term, he is thinking of hooded Klu Kluxers. There is no communication between the two because of this modern semantic fad of ignoring the intention of a speaker and concentrating on the abstraction that he has chosen, perhaps ill-advisedly, to express a feeling. In Goldwater's case, the feeling is a personal one about liberty.

Like the man in the plane, I'm sick to death of bogging over semantics already. It is enough for me to take a man in the context of his life and his record of behavior. Another reason for disliking lint-picking over words is that it keeps people from looking at the full intention of a speech. Two things in particular in Goldwater's acceptance address at San Francisco seem to have been passed over without notice. One was his statement that "all who can, will be self-reliant." The other was his great stress on the "Atlantic community," by which he meant all the nations that have genuinely free traditions to protect against the Communists of both Moscow and Peking.

The latter is particularly interesting because it struck what I call the "Clarence Streit note." Mr. Streit, who quit his job as a New York Times foreign correspondent some 30 years ago to become a prophet of the movement for a limited federation of the western democracies, has been talking about the "Atlantic community" as our forefathers of 1776 and 1787 once talked about federal union for the 13 original colonies. Barry Goldwater doesn't take the subject quite this far. But his phraseology about the need to build on the NATO alliance and to link the free peoples of Latin America who are "simpatico" with us into a strong entente that will also include the free people of the Pacific seems to come from the pages of Mr. Streit's little magazine, "Freedom and Union." Incidentally the phrase "Atlantic community" was originally a coinage of pundit Walter Lippmann, who can't see Goldwater for dust. A strange irony if you had a taste for the natural history of phrases.

There is a faction among the Goldwaterites who regard any "internationalism," even a NATO-based variety, with distaste. When I called attention to the Clarence Streit strain in the piece on foreign policy which Goldwater contributed to "Life" Magazine last January, I got some outraged letters. But Karl Hess, one of Goldwater's speech writers, acknowledged that the strain was there.

The real mystification is that no important European correspondent in the United States as far as I know, has seen fit to make anything of Goldwater's impassioned defense of NATO. The European reporters stationed here seem more interested in reflecting the views of the so-called "eastern liberal" journalists as they are tossed around at the National Press Club in Washington.

Goldwater's insistence that "only the strong can be free" forces him to exalt the claims of NATO and the "Atlantic community" over a UN that must produce paralysis any time Khrushchev chooses to exercise a veto. The same insistence led to his statement that "all who can, will be self-reliant." This has domestic implications so large that they must wait on other columns. Autointoxication Dropped From Medical Textbooks

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Is there such a thing as autointoxication? What would happen if I took a small amount of laxative regularly and then developed severe constipation?

A—Autointoxication is a term that has been dropped from all standard medical textbooks. Formerly it was believed by some doctors that if your bowels did not move regularly one or more times a day, certain ill-defined poisons would be absorbed into the blood and cause a host of woes. Careful scientific studies have shown this idea to be false.

As for what would happen if you were to take any kind of laxative drug regularly—you would upset the regularity of your digestive tract and alternating diarrhea and constipation might well ensue. Instead you should take the amount of vegetables and fruit you need to give you well formed stools. This amount differs with different people but the important thing is to get the proper amount regularly every day.

Q—My doctor says I have Weber-Christian disease. What is it and what can be done for it?

A—You have an inflammation disease of the fatty layer of tissue just beneath the surface of the skin. It is most common in women between 20 and 40. Although it does involve any part of the body, it is more often found in the legs, thighs, arms, abdomen and breasts. The inflamed area is tender to touch. The disease is usually accompanied by chills and fever. Although it may subside after several days without treatment, it is likely to recur and the healed lesions may leave depressed areas. Injections of cortisone often hasten recovery but the depressed areas may have to be replaced by grafts of normal skin.

Q—What is Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease? What is the cause? Is there any cure for it?

A—Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease is a wasting of the peripheral muscles which are part of the calf. The cause is a degeneration of the nerve supplying the muscles. WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

The nation may not get the clear conservative-liberal choice in November which Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee says he wants it to have.

Two things muddy the choice badly: Goldwater's continuing tendency to alarm rather than reassure those in and near his own party who disagree with him, and the explosive civil rights issue.

Republican politicians fear that great streams of moderate to liberal GOP voters—not to mention independents—will take a walk over to President Johnson's side.

The President obviously is going to tailor his campaign appeals in hope of pulling these people toward him. To the extent he does, he may become something of a Democratic "me-too" candidate.

IT IS MUCH TOO EARLY to tell how far all this might go. A number of Republican leaders sampled in San Francisco in the convention aftermath said that resurgent partisan loyalties may in the end keep many troubled Republicans from drifting to Johnson's fold.

One leader said privately he thinks a good many GOP businessmen who will go on talking the case for Johnson right up to voting time will go into the booth Nov. 3 and vote for Goldwater.

Even a few eastern politicians are not as horrified as has been suggested at the prospect of trying to sell Goldwater to their constituency.

Nevertheless, there is very real chance of major moderate defections to Johnson. The impetus would come mostly from fear that in foreign affairs Goldwater is poorly grounded and might act rashly.

In the latter field, the racial struggle could further cloud the "clear choice" Goldwater so ardently wishes to offer. This will be especially true if the hot summer of 1964 is fanned to hotter fury by militant Negro demonstrations, picketing, sit-ins, etc.

Goldwater and A-War: Misconception Explained

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Because of the multitude of distortions already emerging in the current Presidential campaign, millions of Americans have been misled into thinking that Sen. Goldwater, if elected President, would start a nuclear war. Democratic leaders in Congress have begun to characterize the Republican Presidential nominee as "trigger-happy," and various Democratic Governors have used the same innuendo.

But sooner or later truth catches up with fiction. The criticism of the statement made by Sen. Goldwater some time ago was that he was willing to let military commanders in the field exercise their own judgment as to when nuclear weapons would be used. Actually, the Arizona Senator was discussing a scientific military problem that might arise in Europe, and he was describing the importance of delegated authority. He was not referring to the ordinary field commanders, but to the commander-in-chief of American forces who, in most instances would be the supreme commander of all Allied forces, just as Gen. Eisenhower was in World War II and as Marshal Foch was in World War I.

Nobody who stops to think of the surprise attack that could come would wish to require a military commander to get on the telephone and try to find the President of the United States—while he may be traveling around the country—in order to get authority to retaliate as American troops were meanwhile being slaughtered every minute of the time.

The essence of military procedure is that there must be delegated authority—a prescribed course of action that can be used instantly in an emergency. This is all that Sen. Goldwater had in mind, and he wanted such delegated authority given to the commander of the NATO forces, not to subordinate military commanders indiscriminately.

As a matter of fact, the United States government under the Johnson Administration, and previously under the Kennedy Administration, has been giving careful study to a plan known as the "multi-lateral force," which would use nuclear weapons from a European country. The plan calls for 25 surface ships, each equipped with eight Polaris missiles. Under current proposals, each country could exercise a veto but, if there were unanimous agreement among the senior officers on a ship, they could fire the missiles in an emergency. Since there would be mixed crews, all the commanders of the participating nations would agree before pulling the trigger. But plainly it would be the U. S. commander in the field who would be agreeing to the use of missiles in the event of attack.

The details of these plans have not yet been completed, but in theory they are all based upon the concept of delegated authority.

The problem is growing more complex all the time, because there are signs that President de Gaulle of France wants Europe to go it alone. He evidently now has some nuclear strength, though the exact amount has never been announced. He thinks that Europe should act as an entity and that it should not depend upon the United States. This does not mean that he would not welcome the help and the nuclear power of America if France is attacked.

The United States, on the other hand, has been willing to co-operate with France and with other nations in order to get a clear understanding of just how nuclear weapons should be used, preferably through NATO.

Again and again in the past there have been discussions as to who should really pull the trigger, and there has been an impression that this has been left entirely to the President of the United States. But, more and more, the European military men, as well as high officials like President de Gaulle, have come to regard such a remote control as dangerous to their safety. Thus the discussion has turned to the delegation of authority in certain kinds of emergencies.

It is, therefore, an illusion to imply that Sen. Goldwater has initiated the controversy or that anything he has said justifies the interpretation given to his speeches or comments in the past on the subject of delegated authority. Sen. Goldwater, as a reserve officer in the Air Force, is well acquainted with military procedures, and would be the last man to advocate that any commander be given authority to pull the trigger and start a nuclear war.

So the whole quibble about what Sen. Goldwater said or didn't say is really irrelevant. It is most unfortunate that so many people have come to believe that the Arizona Senator has introduced something new into the situation or that he is "impulsive" or "imprudent," as his political enemies have tried to picture him.

The nuclear problem is a serious one and should never be allowed to become a football in party politics.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Sometimes a tiny hole appears in the Iron Curtain. When this happens, the West applies an eye to it, and often sees nothing more than another eye staring back. The Communist vacillate in their attitude toward the West, but never in their antipathy to God, first to be expelled from Russia.

Therefore, I was surprised a few years ago to see Slavic newspapers serializing a book called "The Day Christ Died." Who okayed it, and further, who paid for it? Yesterday, a letter arrived from a Warsaw editor, asking for my views on Catholic writers. He wants to publish the replies. Mieczyslaw Kurzya, of the Kierunki organization, is either brave or insane. Or crafty.

His paper—Pismo Społeczno—Kulturalne Katolików—must be on the suspect list. It is Catholic. If the paper isn't on the suspect list, then it is automatically on mine because the Soviets have managed to induce some priests, some ministers, some rabbis, some patriarchs, to bring Marx and Lenin into their churches as original apostles.

The questions asked by Pan Kurzya are academic. "A vivid discussion," he writes, "has been taking place lately in Poland on what is really meant under the what is the extent of its literary sense."

The answer is so simple as to defy understanding. In the United States of America, Catholic literature consists of religious material usually—but not always—published by a Catholic organ. For example: Newman Press, Sheed and Ward. The Sign, Catholic Digest, the diocesan newspapers. It is not always necessary for the writer to be a Catholic, but here it is the belief of the Catholic Church as the publications of other churches conform to theirs.

The newspapers of this country, which are dominated by Protestants, were almost uniform in applauding the work of the Ecumenical Congress, and they publicly mourned the death of John XXIII, but this is not considered "Catholic Literature." In your country, it might be called propaganda, but here it is news. If a priest commits a murder, the story is also covered in our newspapers, although no one calls it anti-Catholic.

"Do you consider that religious faith limits in any way the author's frankness...?" Any slight bias is in the opposite direction. Jewish writers tend to be overly tender in reporting Catholic stories; Catholic writers are careful not to offend when reporting about Protestant church news. Religious faith, my friend, is something which binds our consciences to our souls; writers are taught by the Bible not to lie, therefore, only a cowardly one would be less than frank in reporting religious news.

A long time ago I wrote a book about religion. It was about Jesus, but it had nothing to do with my Catholicity. The highest compliment it attained was when a Protestant bishop asked the publisher: "What church does the author belong to?" One must always be candid, or risk losing the audience. Writers cannot afford to have prejudices.

Publishers can.

"What particular duties are imposed on a Catholic writer in consequence of his faith?" None, other than honesty in his work. No member of the clergy has ever asked me to alter something I wrote, although I recall one who bristled a little when I said that, in a red cassock, he looked like an Easter egg. Catholic writers are free to criticize their own. Pick up a copy of America, a Jesuit weekly, when the writers are in a picky mood.

"What aspects and processes of the modern world should a Catholic writer be concerned with in particular?" All. If he is a journalist, he must learn to become the eyes and ears of his readers, and he cannot do this if he is going to confine himself to "aspects in particular." His horizons are bounded by the stars and confined to a small prison of facts.

His true goal is unattainable; he wants to know everything about everything. You may not be able to comprehend this, because you do not have press freedom in Poland. I met editors in Madrid who feared freedom of the press. They said: "This puts the responsibility on us, and if we publish something the government doesn't like, we're in trouble." You feel like that about publishing this reply. Please feel free to kill it, but do not edit it.

"Which of your books and personages created in the course of your literary work are you particularly attached to and why?" None. I have written 13 books and cannot call any one a favorite. None of them say exactly what I would like them to say.

Which gives us something in common. (Copyright, 1964, King Features Syndicate Inc.)

ONE MORE CONVENTION

It is not the jolliest thought in the world that we have another national party convention to go through. After a month or so of respite, the Democrats will be whooping it up in Atlantic City. Once again, millions of Americans will groggily watch as hour after hour of often dull yet somehow fascinating political drama unfolds.

"Dull" is not said in cynicism. There just is no evading the fact that, except when enlivened by a nip-and-tuck race for a presidential nomination, convention proceedings have few dramatic highlights.

Conventions are nonetheless momentous events in our national life. Like it or not, this is our way of choosing the men from among whom the nation's chief executive for the next four years will be drawn. And sometimes, as in this year's Republican convention, there is a kind of cumulative drama that does not depend on colorful events for its impact but emerges from the significance of what is being done. In the convention just past, one of our two major parties chose a broad new course. The drama of that will continue to unfold in the months and years ahead.

No such fundamental change of direction is to be anticipated at the coming Democratic convention. Nor will there be the natural dramatic ingredient of a trial for the presidential nomination; the top spot is already filled. The only overt element of drama lies in the question of who will be the president's running mate.

There will, however, be the drama of confrontation between widely variant philosophies. The Democrats will reaffirm their liberalism, and will attempt to put the newly dominant GOP conservatism in the worst possible light. Once they have done this, we will be in for what may yet turn out to be one of the most bitterly fought campaigns of modern times.

MIDSUMMER SAG

For those of middle age who would like to stay trim and fit, this is one of the most dangerous times of the year. It is the time of midsummer sag, only a bit less to be feared than the time of holiday bulge. In fact, the danger of holiday bulge may be less great because it is so obvious.

The insidious thing about midsummer sag is that it comes gradually, rather than in one burst of festive gluttony. Between-meal snacks, often accompanied by fattening beverages, tend to precede backyard cookouts featuring such intertempers as potato salad and corn on the cob. The peril is compounded by seasonal torpor that discourages exercise. So beware: the time of midsummer sag is upon us!

Wallace quits the race and says he'll back the most conservative candidate in support of states' rights. That makes his endorsement a non-mysterious mystery.

MEANINGLESS SIGNAL

The car's right-turn signal was blinking as it came down the long slope that feeds into the superhighway. The signal had apparently been flicked on out of habit, for using it at such a time was pointless; there was no other way to go but along the gently curving feeder lane.

The car moved into the highway traffic and was caught up in its swift pace. The right-turn signal was still blinking. Noting that no traffic was coming up fast behind him, the driver eased over into the left lane. And still his right-turn signal continued to wink its red—and now wholly deceptive—warning.

A driver coming up behind hesitated, waiting for the car with the flashing right turn signal to move into the righthand lane. After a mile or so, the car behind chanced it and swept to the right to pass. It went on down the highway. Presently another car came up behind the car with the winking right-turn signal, and hung back awaiting the signaled turn that never came.

The point of all this is simply that auto-

'These Days'

COTTON PICKING VERSUS LINT PICKING

Unless there is a change in Republican behavior, we can look forward to a campaign this coming Autumn between the cotton-pickin' Democrats and the lint-pickin' Republicans. The Democrats will go about their business of rolling up bales of votes. The Republicans will spend their energies in sterile logic-chopping about the exact meaning of words. And it will bore everybody as it obviously was already boring the man who sat behind me on the plane. "You want to know what an extremist is?" he asked of his companion. "An extremist is anybody who has an opinion."

And that's about it, as the word is tossed about. So let's try to get to opinions, and forget the dirty adjectives. When Goldwater is arguing that "extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice," he is thinking of John Hancock signing his name to the Declaration of Independence in letters so bold that King George III can see it without spectacles. When Rockefeller uses the term, he is thinking of hooded Klu Kluxers. There is no communication between the two because of this modern semantic fad of ignoring the intention of a speaker and concentrating on the abstraction that he has chosen, perhaps ill-advisedly, to express a feeling. In Goldwater's case, the feeling is a personal one about liberty.

Like the man in the plane, I'm sick to death of boggling over semantics already. It is enough for me to take a man in the context of his life and his record of behavior. Another reason for disliking lint-picking over words is that it keeps people from looking at the full intention of a speech. Two things in particular in Goldwater's acceptance address at San Francisco seem to have been passed over without notice. One was his statement that "all who can, will be self-reliant." The other was his great stress on the "Atlantic community," by which he meant all the nations that have genuinely free traditions to protect against the Communists of both Moscow and Peking.

The latter is particularly interesting because it struck what I call the "Clarence Streit note." Mr. Streit, who quit his job as a New York Times foreign correspondent some 30 years ago to become a prophet of the movement for a limited federation of the western democracies, has been talking about the "Atlantic community" as our forefathers of 1776 and 1787 once talked about federal union for the 13 original colonies. Barry Goldwater doesn't take the subject quite this far. But his phraseology about the need to build on the NATO alliance and to link the free peoples of Latin America who are "sympatico" with us into a strong entente that will also include the free people of the Pacific seems to come from the pages of Mr. Streit's little magazine, "Freedom and Union." Incidentally, the phrase "Atlantic community" was originally a coinage of pundit Walter Lippmann, who can't see Goldwater for dust. A strange irony if you had a taste for the natural history of phrases.

There is a faction among the Goldwaterites who regard any "internationalism," even a NATO-based variety, with distaste. When I called attention to the Clarence Streit strain in the piece on foreign policy which Goldwater contributed to "Life" Magazine last January, I got some outraged letters. But Karl Hess, one of Goldwater's speech writers, acknowledged that the strain was there.

The real mystification is that no important European correspondent in the United States, as far as I know, has seen fit to make anything of Goldwater's impassioned defense of NATO. The European reporters stationed here seem more interested in reflecting the views of the so-called "eastern liberal" journalists as they are tossed around at the National Press Club in Washington.

Goldwater's insistence that "only the strong can be free" forces him to exalt the claims of NATO and the "Atlantic community" over a UN that must produce paralysis any time Khrushchev chooses to exercise a veto. The same insistence led to his statement that "all who can, will be self-reliant." This has domestic implications so large that they must wait on other columns.

Autointoxication Dropped From Medical Textbooks

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Is there such a thing as autointoxication? What would happen if I took a small amount of laxative regularly and then developed severe constipation?

A—Autointoxication is a term that has been dropped from all standard medical textbooks. Formerly it was believed by some doctors that if your bowels did not move regularly one or more times a day, certain ill-defined poisons would be absorbed into the blood and cause a host of woes. Careful scientific studies have shown this idea to be false.

As for what would happen if you were to take any kind of laxative drug regularly—you would upset the regularity of your digestive tract and alternating diarrhea and constipation might well ensue. Instead, you should take the amount of vegetables and fruit you need to give you well-formed stools. This amount differs with different people but the important thing is to get the proper amount regularly every day.

Q—My doctor says I have Weber-Christian disease. What is it and what can be done for it?

A—You have an inflammation disease of the fatty layer of tissue just beneath the surface of the skin. It is most common in women between 20 and 40. Although it may involve any part of the body, it is more often found in the legs, thighs, arms, abdomen and breasts. The inflamed area is tender to touch. The disease is usually accompanied by chills and fever. Although it may subside after several days without treatment, it is likely to recur and the healed lesions may leave depressed areas. Injections of cortisone often hasten recovery but the depressed areas may have to be replaced by grafts of normal skin.

Q—What is Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease?

A—Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease is a wasting of the peripheral muscles which are part of the calf. The cause is a degeneration of the nerve supplying the muscles. The cause of the nerve disorder is unknown, but heredity may be a factor. There is no cure, but corrective shoes and braces help the victim to get around.

reasons why they're for Goldwater, rather than acknowledge that the Negro situation may be the real one."

The temptation to take advantage of the white backlash could be great in the Goldwater camp. The senator says he hopes civil rights will not be an issue, but a view widely held is that his vote against the 1964 civil rights bill was the final insurance that the issue would boil up in this campaign.

Nothing equals civil rights in emotional charge. It is the issue which seems to offer Goldwater most hope of victory, not alone in the South—where leaders say they are already cranking up for Barry—but in the West and in the cities and suburbs of the industrial Northeast and Midwest.

IT IS LIKE THE CATHOLIC ISSUE in the Kennedy-Nixon race of 1960. The candidate can disavow prejudice and order his people not to use it, as Richard Nixon disavowed it in 1960. But it can work for him anyway, as it surely did for Nixon four years ago.

If it works for Goldwater in 1964 and draws Democrats to him he would not otherwise get, he might get elected—but not through the clear conservative-liberal choice he sought the nomination to provide.

Under current proposals, each country could exercise a veto but, if there were unanimous agreement among the senior officers on a ship, they could fire the missiles in an emergency. Since there would be mixed crews, all the commanders of the participating nations would agree before pulling the trigger. But plainly it would be the U. S. commander in the field who would be agreeing to the use of missiles in the event of attack.

The details of these plans have not yet been completed, but in theory they are all based upon the concept of delegated authority.

The problem is growing more complex all the time, because there are signs that President de Gaulle of France wants Europe to go it alone. He evidently now has some nuclear strength, though the exact amount has never been announced. He thinks that Europe should act as an entity and that it should not depend upon the United States. This does not mean that he would not welcome the help and the nuclear power of America if France is attacked.

The United States, on the other hand, has been willing to co-operate with France and with other nations in order to get a clear understanding of just how nuclear weapons should be used, preferably through NATO.

Again and again in the past there have been discussions as to who should really pull the trigger, and there has been an impression that this has been left entirely to the President of the United States. But, more and more, the European military men, as well as high officials like President de Gaulle, have come to regard such a remote control as dangerous to their safety. Thus the discussion has turned to the delegation of authority in certain kinds of emergencies.

It is, therefore, an illusion to imply that Sen. Goldwater has initiated the controversy or that anything he has said justifies the interpretation given to his speeches or comments in the past on the subject of delegated authority. Sen. Goldwater, as a reserve officer in the Air Force, is well acquainted with military procedures, and would be the last man to advocate that any commander be given authority to pull the trigger and start a nuclear war.

So the whole quibble about what Sen. Goldwater said or didn't say is really irrelevant. It is most unfortunate that so many people have come to believe that the Arizona Senator has introduced something new into the situation or that he is "impulsive" or "imprudent," as his political enemies have tried to picture him.

The nuclear problem is a serious one and should never be allowed to become a football in party politics.

church news. Religious faith, my friend, is something which binds our consciences to our souls; writers are taught by the Bible not to lie, therefore, only a cowardly one would be less than frank in reporting religious news.

A long time ago I wrote a book about religion. It was about Jesus, but it had nothing to do with my Catholicity. The highest compliment it attained was when a Protestant bishop asked the publisher: "What church does the author belong to?" One must always be candid, or risk losing the audience. Writers can't afford to have prejudices.

What particular duties are imposed on a Catholic writer in consequence of his faith? None, other than honesty in his work. No member of the clergy has ever asked me to alter something I wrote, although I recall one who bristled a little when I said that, in a red cassock, he looked like an Easter egg. Catholic writers are free to criticize their own group. Pick up a copy of America, a Jesuit weekly, when the writers are in a picky mood.

What aspects and processes of the modern world should a Catholic writer be concerned with in particular? All. If he is a journalist, he must learn to become the eyes and ears of his readers, and he cannot do this if he is going to confine himself to "aspects in particular." His horizons are bounded by the stars and confined to a small prison of facts.

His true goal is unattainable; he wants to know everything about everything. You may not be able to comprehend this, because you do not have press freedom in Poland. I met editors in Madrid who feared freedom of the press. They said: "This puts the responsibility on us, and if we publish something the government doesn't like, we're in trouble." You feel like that about publishing this reply. Please feel free to kill it, but do not edit it.

Which of your books and personages created in the course of your literary work are you particularly attached to and why? None. I have written 13 books and cannot call any one a favorite. None of them say exactly what I would like them to say.

Which gives us something in common. (Copyright, 1964, King Features Syndicate Inc.)

His Proposals Disregarded Again

DeGaulle Won't Keep His Nose Out of Asia for Good

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) Charles De Gaulle got stuck with an idea; now he's reworking it. The last thing he wants to be ignored; but he's being ignored.

The French president Thursday proposed at his second news conference of 1964 the neutralization of all Southeast Asia, including Viet Nam. It was an old idea.

He had proposed it at his first news conference of 1964 last January. The United States brushed off the idea then. It's brushing it off now.

The trouble was that 10 years ago 14 nations at Geneva reached an agreement supposed to keep Southeast Asia peaceful. It's been anything but.

Washington's view was, and is, that Red China and the North Vietnamese broke the agreement. So why think a new agreement would be observed?

France had held Indochina as a colony since the 19th century and showed no signs of granting independence until some Indochinese got fed up.

Fought French 7½ Years
Some of them, Communist-led under Ho Chi Minh, fought the French 7½ years and finally wrecked them in 1953.

This was humiliation for the French who had to be bailed out in two world wars. Now under De Gaulle, they aspire to world leadership again.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

BOSTON PARK, Mass., July 24 — This is Barry Goldwater's great hour. He has received the Convention and it may mean his election in November to the Presidency of the United States. I doubt whether he expects it. If President Johnson retains his health and selects a satisfactory man for Vice President, the consensus is that Johnson will be reelected in November. However, many events will occur in the meantime and even President Johnson could be defeated. Similar political surprises have happened in the past.

Entire World Needs Readjusting

The defeat of Barry Goldwater by President Johnson may result in making Goldwater the greatest individual in the English speaking world. Indeed, the English speaking countries are in need of a courageous leader. They are already beginning to talk in their press about Barry Goldwater as the one and only man who has the necessary foresight and courage.

Great Britain and, in fact, the entire British Commonwealth including Canada would naturally be the first to appeal to Goldwater to help them out. Great Britain is now on the verge of an election between the Conservatives and Labor. The English press is strongly divided between the financial interests of London and the working people of Liverpool. Some of the editorials are already saying "we need a man like Senator Barry Goldwater to lead us out of the present conflicts, — a courageous man, absolutely unselfish, and not a politician." This does not mean any permanent change of government, but simply a temporary agreement for the good of all parties. But let us look at other English speaking countries. The next great one without a strong leader is India.

What About India?

This is a vast sub-continent and a long-civilized country, second only to China in population, with over half a billion people, including Pakistan. It had been held together by Prime Minister Nehru who recently died suddenly leaving these millions of people as a prey to Russia, China, or to a purely revolutionary group. This is one of the world's greatest political problems today. It is vitally tied up with South Vietnam which is now holding back the Chinese.

Furthermore, it looks as if the South Vietnam war can only be contained by more active United States participation. This President Johnson is in no mood to do now, especially before the election in November. With this, Laos and Cambodia are also involved. Many national leaders believe that Barry Goldwater is the only one who, at present, could hold the Chinese back and be unselfish enough to retire after he has performed this important function. Furthermore, even though he should get the Presidency of the United States, Barry Goldwater may one day be widely viewed as a "prophet" of the English speaking world.

Possibilities of Failure

Barry Goldwater is human and may forget his unselfish independence when he comes to the test, but as yet he has not. He will undoubtedly stick to his present hope of, beating President Johnson in the November elections. Should Barry Goldwater win, he will go down in history as a great figure as George Washington or Abraham Lincoln. But the temptations before him will be very great from now on.

The purpose of this week's column is to warn readers of the terrific importance of the events we are now facing. This is not an appeal for Barry Goldwater. He may stumble as have many before him having the same opportunity. No one, of course, can tell what the future holds. Yet I am one of those who believe that what takes place now is simply a continuation of what has been happening down through the centuries, and furthermore that what happens today or tomorrow will be the result of forces set in motion centuries ago. I wish that General DeGaulle, for whom I have the greatest respect, would give more time to reading the history of Rome, Spain, Carthage and other ancient nations of North Africa.

YOU MAY BE LOSING MONEY BY PAYING LESS

There are many cars that cost almost as much as a Cadillac. But it is a matter of fact that the decision to buy one of them could be a false economy.

Consider the major items included in the price of a Cadillac that are usually extra on other cars: automatic transmission, high-performance engine, power steering and power brakes, automatic cornering lights, and power windows on most models.

Then think of what a new Cadillac can save you on operation and maintenance. Cadillac is actually the rival of much smaller, lighter cars in gasoline efficiency—and it is so soundly built that it has reduced upkeep expense to the practical minimum.

You're ahead again—every mile you drive. Finally, reflect on Cadillac's high trade-in value. No car at or near its price preserves its original investment so well.

The Geneva Agreement divided Viet Nam into North and South Viet Nam, with a Chi Minh still in charge in the north. The French pulled out.

The North Vietnamese decided to take over South Viet Nam, which needed help to survive. The United States stepped in and has been helping out since.

It seems clear from this history that if there was a new agreement and the United States pulled out, the North Vietnamese wouldn't let peace last long.

This time—adding a new touch—De Gaulle wants the United States, France, Russia and Red China to guarantee the peace.

Can't Take It

De Gaulle's proposals on Southeast Asia suggest he can't reconcile himself to the thought that France should, or must, keep its nose out of Asia permanently.

It is part of the pattern of his mind. He wouldn't accept a nuclear test ban treaty, insisting instead that France must build its own nuclear arsenal.

At the same time he wants a close tie-up with Germany. But this wouldn't be on an equal partnership basis if France had nuclear weapons and Germany didn't.

And if West Germany tried to build the Russians would go through the ceiling. And so would De Gaulle, probably.

The Frenchman seeks a kind of French-German alliance that would dominate their smaller neighbors. But German Chancellor Erhard wants no part of it.

He knows West Germany is too close to Russia for safety and wishes to have the protection of the United States.

De Gaulle wants that protection but apparently wishes he didn't.

YOU MAY BE LOSING MONEY BY PAYING LESS

There are many cars that cost almost as much as a Cadillac. But it is a matter of fact that the decision to buy one of them could be a false economy.

Consider the major items included in the price of a Cadillac that are usually extra on other cars: automatic transmission, high-performance engine, power steering and power brakes, automatic cornering lights, and power windows on most models.

Then think of what a new Cadillac can save you on operation and maintenance. Cadillac is actually the rival of much smaller, lighter cars in gasoline efficiency—and it is so soundly built that it has reduced upkeep expense to the practical minimum.

You're ahead again—every mile you drive. Finally, reflect on Cadillac's high trade-in value. No car at or near its price preserves its original investment so well.

So add it all up. You'll see what most owners mean when they say you don't spend more for a Cadillac. You just invest a little more—and get a lot more back.

If a Cadillac has long been in your plans, visit your dealer and get all the dollars-and-cents facts.

Chances are you'll see the wisdom of getting a Cadillac out of your dreams and into your driveway.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Most business spokesmen hold fast to their belief that the economic upswing is too strong for this summer's particular perils to curb.

The perils most often cited are the possible outcomes of the auto labor negotiations, a more emotional than usual presidential campaign, and the failure of economic growth to make much of a dent in unemployment.

Business circles also are watching closely the trend in the factory work week this summer, in new orders for durable goods, especially in the machinery and equipment industries, and the racial conflicts which could cause economic as well as political upsets.

As always, the ups and downs of the stock market have their emotional effect on both businessmen and the general public. But the momentum of the industrial and retail expansion in the early spring is counted on to carry over into the fall and winter. The more optimistic, or venturesome, see all of 1965 in the plus column, and put off any worrying until 1966.

In the midst of all this euphoria, the auto labor talks are a leading question mark at the moment. The worst that could happen to the economy in general would be a long strike. This would cripple the steel industry, along with many other suppliers.

In management eyes, almost as bad would be a wage and fringe benefit settlement so costly as to set off price increases. And such a pact would be a goal for other labor leaders. The worst thing here would be the sparking of another wage-price spiral such as troubled the nation in the late 1940s and early 1950s.

Most observers are saying, at least, that they expect neither a strike nor an inflationary settlement.

The more prosaic factors of the economy—new orders, factory work weeks, expansion plans, retail sales—will be watched closely this summer by business and government executive officials alike.

Some slackening in many of these indicators of things to come is to be expected during the hot months.

So far, some downturns have been reported. The optimists call them seasonal or temporary. They stress the signs that point to a big autumn recovery—such things as business plans for more spending on plant and equipment, and consumer spending intention polls which show confidence still strong and pursestrings still loose.

Incinerator Is Answer

329 East Union St.
Kingston, N. Y.
July 22, 1964

Editor, The Freeman,

As president of the Fifth Ward Community Association, I believe the citizens of our city would be interested in knowing the principal reasons why we are strongly opposed to the city's plan to dump all its waste materials, including garbage, in the beautiful lagoon at Kingston Point.

In this letter, limited in words, it is impossible to give all the arguments which we consider valid and reasonable.

It should be obvious to everyone that such a project would decrease the value of homes and property in that vicinity. Not only homes but the beautiful St. Ursula Convent and School would be unmeasurably harmed.

We must disagree with those who say that there are no homes in the vicinity of the proposed landfill. Those who know this area can tell you that there are many fine homes within a short distance from the lagoon and ten on the very shore. The city says that it will cover up the refuse. We do not doubt their good intentions. However, judging from the past, this has not been successful enough to prevent exposing of the material which has caught fire creating a hazard and stench. Rats and other vermin have been a problem.

These landfills have been on land. What would be the situation if the refuse and garbage were thrown into four to seven feet of tide water? The city says the lagoon could be shut off and drained. Possibly so, but have they considered that Kingston has 45 inches of precipitation and that this together with known springs would gradually fill the bay? Again what operations could be carried on in winter with a frozen surface? Surely, this waste could not be placed on top of the ice.

Further objections include the danger to school children who will be attending the John F. Kennedy School. Those from our ward must walk up Delaware Ave. with inadequate or no sidewalks and cross the road against traffic. It is estimated that there will be about 75 trips daily by the city trucks to the dumping area.

Does it appear sensible for the city to place such a project near Bath Beach where last Sunday about three thousand came to enjoy themselves? It appears, too, that both the Beach and the new city park at Kingston Point will be near the landfill.

The city claims to complete this in two or three years. Those who know the situation very well, feel it would take many more. In the meantime, would it be fair to subject the residents of all the city to this unhealthy, unsightly and unfair situation?

It appears that the best answer to this problem is an incinerator, placed at a distance where the objectionable aspects of a dump would not be a problem for any section of this fine city.

R. H. VAN VALKENBURGH
President of the Fifth Ward Community Association.

Sun Reflection Cooks Evergreens

Shrubs and evergreens planted too close to white or light-colored houses cringe from reflection of intense summer sunlight. They bend or lean away. But after a time the parts exposed to hot bouncing sunlight become "cooked" and often the entire plant dies.

Dr. Edward J. Duda, director of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, reports this burning is shown up two to three years after the plants have been planted. Most occurs in new developments where evergreens were planted on southern exposure as close as 18 inches to clapboard and shingled houses.

Yew and rhododendron cannot tolerate intense light. Azalea and Japanese ilex can take it to a better degree. But most evergreens can be scorched by intense reflected light. Foundation plantings should be placed at least three to four feet from a building line if exposed to full sunlight on south side of building.

During summer all plants on southern and southwestern exposures require more water than those planted on the north side. Yet, too often all foundation plants are watered equally and home owners wonder why those on the southern side do poorly. Lack of moisture is often the reason.

To Open Office For Insurance At Hi-Lo Aug. 1

FRANK A. ADAMS

Frank A. Adams, local agent for the Nationwide Insurance Company, and Philip Harris, president of the Hi-Lo Department Store in Port Ewen, announced today in a joint statement that Adams will rent space and conduct his business from Hi-Lo starting on or about Aug. 1.

The arrangement will mark the first time that a complete insurance service has been offered from a department store in the Hudson Valley they said.

Adams, of 82 Crane Street, former alderman of the Fifth Ward, was an insurance adjuster for Nationwide for seven years prior to his appointment about two years ago as an agent. He is thoroughly trained in all phases of the insurance field. His office will be located in the alcove of the Hi-Lo store and he will maintain business hours from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

In making the announcement, both Adams and Harris emphasized the convenience of securing insurance service which will be available to all Hi-Lo Department Store customers.

Yew and rhododendron cannot tolerate intense light. Azalea and Japanese ilex can take it to a better degree. But most evergreens can be scorched by intense reflected light. Foundation plantings should be placed at least three to four feet from a building line if exposed to full sunlight on south side of building.

During summer all plants on southern and southwestern exposures require more water than those planted on the north side. Yet too often all foundation plants are watered equally and home owners wonder why those on the southern side do poorly. Lack of moisture is often the reason.

To Open Office For Insurance At Hi-Lo Aug. 1

Frank A. Adams, local agent for the Nationwide Insurance Company, and Philip Harris, president of the Hi-Lo Department Store in Port Ewen, announced today in a joint statement that Adams will rent space and conduct his business from Hi-Lo starting on or about Aug. 1.

The arrangement will mark the first time that a complete insurance service has been offered from a department store in the Hudson Valley they said.

Adams, of 82 Crane Street, former alderman of the Fifth Ward, was an insurance adjuster for Nationwide for seven years prior to his appointment about two years ago as an agent. He is thoroughly trained in all phases of the insurance field. His office will be located in the alcove of the Hi-Lo store and he will maintain business hours from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

In making the announcement, both Adams and Harris emphasized the convenience of securing insurance service which will be available to all Hi-Lo Department Store customers.

Goldwater, Johnson To Discuss CR Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Against a backdrop of harsh words, Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater talks with President Johnson today about steps "to avoid any inflating of trouble" over civil rights in the presidential campaign.

"I don't want to exploit the campaign in any way that will cause disorder," the Arizona senator said Thursday night.

He talked with newsmen just after he had voted against Johnson's $947.5-million program to combat poverty. It passed 62 to 33.

No Formal Agreement

Goldwater said he is not going to propose a formal agreement with Johnson to keep the explosive side of civil rights out of politics in the months ahead. And he said he does not want to discuss the new Civil Rights act, which he opposed in the Senate.

What he wants, Goldwater said, is a "broad discussion on the campaign and what we both can do to avoid any inflating of trouble."

Goldwater sought the White House session.

To prepare for it, he called a huddle of his research advisers for a discussion of the message he will carry to the President.

Goldwater has said he wants to give the civil rights law a chance to work, even though he voted against it on grounds its sections on public accommodations and equal employment are unconstitutional.

Capital News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State and Defense Departments are making it easier for American newsmen to cover the war in South Vietnam.

They are flying small groups of from two to four newsmen to the Asian country for visits of from 10 to 14 days. They are provided with public affairs officers to assist them and helicopters to fly to battle areas.

The new policy follows increasingly critical reports about the way the South Vietnamese government, aided by the United States, was fighting the war against the Communist Viet Cong rebels.

The first group of newsmen invited by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is currently in Viet Nam and another group is due to leave Saturday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negroes earn only about one-half as much as white workers in the United States, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Thursday.

The secretary said, "There is a continuing lag and it is getting worse."

Wirtz said more education, better housing and job opportunities were needed to make civil rights a reality.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Selective Service System announced Thursday 6,200 men would be drafted for the Army in September.

This compares with the 1964 low of 6,000 in June, and the high of 14,000 in March.

Bomb Damages Eatery

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—The restaurant of a plush St. Augustine motel, prime target of integrationist activities, was badly damaged by a fire bomb today.

Manager James Brock of the Monson Motor Lodge said two one-gallon containers of inflammable liquid were thrown through the window of the restaurant, then ignited by Molotov cocktails.

Brock, who integrated his restaurant after passage of the Civil Rights Act and then segregated it again under what he termed threats by white segregationists, said he did not know who was responsible.

Entry Reported At Mason's Store

Mason's store on the West Hurley-Woodstock Road was entered some time after the store was closed Thursday about 11 p. m. and when it was opened at 8 a. m. today.

The general store is operated by Albert and Frederick Mason. Entrance was gained by breaking a side window. In breaking in the building the person was cut and the floor was splattered with blood.

Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone and Deputy Sheriff Burton Wolven investigated the entry.

Approximately 15 to 20 cartons of cigarettes and about $1 in change from a cash register was missing. An inventory was being taken to ascertain whether anything else was taken. While the burglar secured only about $1 in cash, about $175 was unaccounted for in another place in the store was found intact today.

Ike Leaves for Home

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower leaves for Gettysburg today after relaxing on the Monterey Peninsula, "very bad" golf and medical treatment of his mouth.

Eisenhower, looking fit and rested after a few days of post-Republican convention recreation, checked into the St. Francis Hotel Thursday before leaving for home with Mrs. Eisenhower.

Three physicians from the Army Presidio were awaiting the general in his suite when he arrived.

"I just picked up something too hot," he explained to newsmen. "The doctors just wanted to be sure there is no infection."

Cars, Trucks Moving

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, returning to work after a 31-day strike, were beginning to move some 115,000 new cars and trucks from auto assembly plants on the East Coast today.

The vehicles have been backing up at assembly plants and at railheads and piers since 18 Teamsters locals struck 15 new car hauling firms June 22.

Teamsters headquarters in Washington announced Thursday that the locals, on a third vote, had ratified a contract with the haulers. The exact returns and terms of the new pact were not disclosed.

To Consider 2 Airlines In Third's Application

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board says it will consider the interests of Mohawk and Allegheny Air Lines when it takes up the application of United Air Lines to eliminate some stops.

The basic question is United's request for deletion of its service to Harrisburg and Williamsport, Pa., and Elmira-Corning, N.Y.

The CAB agreed Thursday to consider in that proceeding the application of Allegheny for a new route between Philadelphia and Buffalo by way of Williamsport, Elmira-Corning and Rochester.

Earlier the board had included in the proceeding Allegheny's proposal to replace United in serving the cities mentioned on a route between Washington, Baltimore and Buffalo and Mohawk's plan to replace United at the intermediate points and at the Philadelphia terminal, too.

The auto group, bolstered by record earnings by the Big Three automakers, was about the only one on the list to show a slightly higher tone. Airlines were a little lower and other major sections were irregular.

5 Escape Injury As Bolt Strikes Marlboro Antenna

Five persons in Marlboro escaped injury when lightning struck the TV antenna on the Joseph Alessi home on Hudson Terrace, Thursday during a heavy storm.

Among those who miraculously escaped injury was Dr. Philip Fossa, a Newburgh school teacher, who had just gone outside the house to turn off a hose faucet. He was reported to have been within a couple of feet of the faucet when the bolt struck the TV tower, coursed down the antenna lead and grounded.

The bolt struck the TV tower, entered the roof of the three-story house and set fire to clothing in a closet on the top floor of the house which is occupied on the ground floor by the Joseph Alessi family and on the top floors by the John Alessi family.

Both families were at dinner on the first floor when the house was struck. Dr. Fossa had just left the house to turn off an outside faucet which had been opened to fill a swimming pool in the yard. His escape from injury is believed to have been partially due to the fact that he wore rubber soled shoes at the time. At the time the children of Mr. and Mrs. John Alessi were not at home and they were dining with his parents downstairs.

Smoke was seen issuing from the roof by the Thomas Pastorella family who summoned Marlboro firemen and notified the Alessi family of the fire on the top floor.

In addition to some damage to the roof the Alessi family lost clothing and various pieces of electrical equipment in the house, including the TV set.

The storm which damaged the Alessi home in Marlboro however, was of assistance to New Paltz firemen who had been summoned to the Jack Erwan premises off Route 32 back of the new Duzine Elementary School in New Paltz.

At 5:25 p. m., New Paltz firemen were summoned to the premises where a brush fire was in progress. Through Mutual Aid St. Remy and Modena also were called. The firemen fought the blaze under direction of Fire Chief Peter Savago. It was reported some 10 acres had been burned over when the storm struck to give the firemen an assist in extinguishing the fire.

No Hail Reported

The storm, which lasted over half an hour, gave some relief from the drought condition in the southern Ulster area. No hail was reported and residents of the area reported no unusual wind which might have damaged fruit crops. While southern Ulster was receiving the deluge, the storm also hung over Dutchess County where heavy rain was reported in the Clinton Hollow-Salt Point area and in Beacon which reported the storm had been accompanied by "tornado like" winds.

Kingston failed to get any of the storm.

The six-month earnings reported Thursday were equal to $3.19 a share of common stock, compared with $2,838,744 or $1.58 a share in the January-June period of last year.

Student Should Sell Now Add to Savings Account

Q) "I will be a senior in high school this fall and will enter a fine (but expensive) college for the following four years. I have $2,000 in cash, $350 in savings bonds, and ten shares of Parke, Davis. I will have to sell the stock about halfway through my sophomore year in college. Should I hold it until then or sell now?" — F. Y.

A) For a young man in school, you seem to have a pretty good financial backlog for a college education.

Parke, Davis is one of the oldest and most respected names in ethical drugs. Its most important product is chloromycetin on which its U. S. patents expires in 1966. No one knows what the result will be, but the market seems already to be discounting lower earnings, as the very poor technical analysis of the shares clearly indicates.

I think you would be wise to dispose of your stock now and add the proceeds to your savings account.

Q) "From 1942 to 1953 I invested $16,500 in series E bonds.

Could you tell me what these bonds are worth? How long will they continue to pay on the 1942 bonds? Would it be smart to redeem these bonds?" — A. M.

A) I cannot answer your first question, since I don't know the months of issue.

I suggest that you write to the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., and ask for a Table of Redemption Values series A-E, enclosing 15 cents in cash. I think you will then very easily check out the present value of your bonds.

As to your second question, the 1942 bonds are now in their second period of extension and will accrue interest until at least 1971. It seems likely that on that date another extension will be granted.

I do not advise you to redeem your bonds — unless you need current income — since by so doing you would become liable to Federal income taxes on all accrued interest.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Dutchess Man Is Ruled Suicide

A 50-year-old Poughkeepsie merchant was found dead of gunshot wounds in his Verbank home at about 9 p. m. Thursday, and a preliminary verdict was given by authorities as apparent suicide.

South Millbrook State Police told The Freeman that Ben Rogatz, of Milewood Road, Town of Union Vale, was pronounced dead by Dr. Michael Badeen, of Millerton, a Dutchess County assistant medical examiner.

Dr. Badeen gave a preliminary ruling of "apparent suicide" pending a formal inquest to be held later before County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester H. Golding, Wappingers Falls.

According to an investigation by BCI Investigator J. J. Conway and Trooper Jack Miceli, Rogatz had been disturbed because of business reasons. Rogatz and his brother Arthur, were partners in a sporting goods business in Poughkeepsie.

Troopers said Arthur and a friend, Raymond Pine went to the Verbank home at about 9 p. m. yesterday and found Ben dead on a bedroom floor. A shotgun was discovered near the body.

Investigators said Ben apparently placed the barrel of the gun in his mouth, and with the weapon between his legs, pulled the trigger. He died instantly.

Dr. Golding said the man had apparently shot himself at about 3 p. m. The body was not found until six hours later.

The body was removed to the Allen Funeral Home, Millbrook. The office of District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta was notified.

Reds Pull Ambush

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—The Communists pulled off their fourth ambush of the week in South Viet Nam Thursday night, killing an American Special Forces enlisted man and wounding a U.S. officer. An American spokesman said Vietnamese casualties were believed high in the attack in the central highlands near Ban Me Thout. The Special Forces man was the 159th American killed in combat in South Viet Nam since December 1961. The Americans were with a strike force of Montagnards—mountain tribesmen—moving from Ban Me Thout to the forward base of Buon Brieng when they were ambushed.

Capital News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State and Defense Departments are making it easier for American newsmen to cover the war in South Viet Nam.

They are flying small groups of from two to four newsmen to the Asian country for visits of from 10 to 14 days. They are provided with public affairs officers to assist them and helicopters to fly to battle areas. The new policy follows increasingly critical reports about the way the South Vietnamese government, aided by the United States, was fighting the war against the Communist Viet Cong rebels.

The first group of newsmen invited by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is currently in Viet Nam and another group is due to leave Saturday. WASHINGTON (AP)—Negotiations earn only about one-half as much as white workers in the United States. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Thursday.

The secretary said, "There is a continuing lag and it is getting worse." Wirtz said more education, better housing and job opportunities were needed to make civil rights a reality.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Selective Service System announced Thursday 6,200 men would be drafted for the Army in September. This compares with the 1964 low of 6,000 in June, and the high of 14,000 in March.

Bomb Damages Eatery

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—The restaurant of a plush St. Augustine motel, prime target of integrationist activities, was badly damaged by a fire bomb today.

Manager James Brock of the Monson Motel Lodge said two one-gallon containers of inflammable liquid were thrown through the window of the restaurant, then ignited by Molotov cocktails.

Brock, who integrated his restaurant after passage of the Civil Rights Act and then segregated it again under what he termed threats by white segregationists, said he did not know who was responsible.

Entry Reported At Mason's Store

Mason's store on the West Hurley-Woodstock Road was entered sometime after the store was closed Thursday about 11 p. m. and when it was opened at 8 a. m. today.

The general store is operated by Albert and Frederick Mason. Entrance was gained by breaking a side window. In breaking in the building the person was cut and the floor was spattered with blood.

Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone and Deputy Sheriff Burton Wolven investigated the entry. Approximately 15 to 20 cartons of cigarettes and about $1 in change from a cash register was missing. An inventory was being taken to ascertain whether anything else was taken. To Consider 2 Airlines In Third's Application

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board says it will consider the interests of Mohawk and Allegheny Air Lines when it takes up the application of United Air Lines to eliminate some stops.

The basic question is United's request for deletion of its service to Harrisburg and Williamsport, Pa., and Elmira-Corning, N.Y.

The CAB agreed Thursday to consider in that proceeding the application of Allegheny for a new route between Philadelphia and Buffalo by way of Williamsport, Elmira-Corning and Rochester.

Earlier the board had included in the proceeding Allegheny's proposal to replace United in serving the cities mentioned on a route between Washington, Baltimore and Buffalo and Mohawk's plan to replace United at the intermediate points and at the Philadelphia terminal, too.

At noon, The Associated Press 60-stock average was ahead 2 at 320.1, with industrials up .4, rails off .2 and utilities up .2. At noon the Dow Jones industrial average was ahead 1.13, its largest move of the day, at 847.61.

No Hail Reported

The storm, which lasted over half an hour, gave some relief from the drought condition in the southern Ulster area. No hail was reported and residents of the area reported no unusual wind which might have damaged fruit crops. While southern Ulster was receiving the deluge, the storm also hung over Dutchess County where heavy rain was reported in the Clinton-High-Salt Point area and in Beacon which reported the storm had been accompanied by "tornado like" winds.

Kingston failed to get any of the storm.

5 Escape Injury As Bolt Strikes MarlboroAntenna

Five persons in Marlboro escaped injury when lightning struck the TV antenna on the Joseph Alessi home on Hudson Terrace, Thursday during a heavy storm.

Among those who miraculously escaped injury was Dr. Philip Fossa, a Newburgh school teacher, who had just gone outside the house to turn off a hose faucet. He was reported to have been within a couple of feet of the faucet when the bolt struck the TV tower, crouched down the antenna lead and grounded.

The bolt struck the TV tower, entered the roof of the three-story house and set fire to clothing in a closet on the top floor of the house which is occupied on the ground floor by the Joseph Alessi family and on the top floors by the John Alessi family.

Both families were at dinner on the first floor when the house was struck. Dr. Fossa had just left the house to turn off an outside faucet which had been opened to fill a swimming pool in the yard. His escape from injury is believed to have been partially due to the fact that he wore rubber soled shoes at the time. At the time the children of Mr. and Mrs. John Alessi were not at home and they were dining with his parents downstairs.

Smoke was seen issuing from the roof by the Thomas Pastorella family who summoned Marlboro firemen and notified the Alessi family of the fire on the top floor.

In addition to some damage to the roof the Alessi family lost clothing and various pieces of electrical equipment in the house, including the TV set.

The storm which damaged the Alessi home in Marlboro however, was of assistance to New Paltz firemen who had been summoned to the Jack Erwan premises off Route 32 back of the new DuZine Elementary School in New Paltz.

At 5:25 p. m., New Paltz firemen were summoned to the premises where a brush fire was in progress. Through Mutual Aid St. Remy and Modena also were called. The firemen fought the blaze under direction of Fire Chief Peter Savago. It was reported some 10 acres had been burned over when the storm struck to give the firemen an assist in extinguishing the fire.

Student Should Sell Now Add to Savings Account

Q: "I will be a senior in high school this fall and will enter a fine (but expensive) college for the following four years. I have $2,000 in cash, $350 in savings bonds, and ten shares of Parke, Davis. I will have to sell the stock about halfway through my sophomore year in college. Should I hold it until then or sell now?" — F. Y.

A: For a young man in school, you seem to have a pretty good financial backlog for a college education.

Parke, Davis is one of the oldest and most respected names in ethical drugs. Its most important product is chloromycetin on which its U. S. patents expires in 1966. No one knows what the result will be, but the market seems already to be discounting lower earnings, as the very poor technical action of the shares clearly indicates.

I think you would be wise to dispose of your stock now and add the proceeds to your savings account.

Q: "From 1942 to 1953 I invested $16,500 in series E bonds."

Could you tell me what these bonds are worth? How long will they continue to pay on the 1942 bonds? Would it be smart to redeem these bonds?" — A. M.

A: I cannot answer your first question, since I don't know the months of issue. I suggest that you write to the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., and ask for a Table of Redemption Values series A-E, enclosing 15 cents in cash. I think you will then very easily check out the present value of your bonds.

As to your second question, the 1942 bonds are now in their second period of extension and will accrue interest until at least 1971. It seems likely that on that date another extension will be granted.

I do not advise you to redeem your bonds — unless you need current income — since by so doing you would become liable to Federal income taxes on all accrued interest.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Dutchess Man Is Ruled Suicide

A 50-year-old Poughkeepsie merchant was found dead of gunshot wounds in his Verbank home at about 9 p. m. Thursday, and a preliminary verdict was given by authorities as apparent suicide.

South Millbrook State Police told The Freeman that Ben Rogatz, of Milewood Road, Town of Union Vale, was pronounced dead by Dr. Michael Badeen, of Millerton, a Dutchess County assistant medical examiner.

Dr. Badeen gave a preliminary ruling of "apparent suicide" pending a formal inquest to be held later before County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester H. Golding, Wappingers Falls.

According to an investigation by BCI Investigator J. J. Conway and Trooper Jack Miceli, Rogatz had been disturbed because of business reasons. Rogatz and his brother Arthur, were partners in a sporting goods business in Poughkeepsie.

Troopers said Arthur and a friend, Raymond Pine went to the Verbank home at about 9 p. m. yesterday and found Ben dead on a bedroom floor. A shotgun was discovered near the body.

Investigators said Ben apparently placed the barrel of the gun in his mouth, and with the weapon between his legs, pulled the trigger. He died instantly. Dr. Golding said the man had apparently shot himself at about 3 p. m. The body was not found until six hours later.

The body was removed to the Allen Funeral Home, Millbrook. The office of District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta was notified.

Report Agreement
Malay and Chinese headmen of various communities on the island met Thursday night. They reportedly agreed on temporary arrangements to restore order.

Lee Kuan Yew, state premier of Singapore who is of Chinese descent, blamed the riots on Malay extremists. He warned that if the racial situation got out of hand, it could endanger the Malaysian Federation.

Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman has charged that the riots were fomented by Indonesia as part of its campaign to smash the federation.

Rahman, who is in Washington seeking U.S. support for his country's struggle against Indonesia, said the riots might force him to cut short his trip. Indonesia's state radio said imperialism and colonialism are to blame for the racial clashes.

Dear Abby . . .

Speak Up!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband hasn't kissed me since 1959. And then it was only a little peck on the cheek. We are both in our 60's and I would enjoy some affection. I hate to bring it up because I think it's the man's place to. I suppose there is always a chance that he is finished with that part of his life. But if he isn't, what a pity to have it wasted. I don't discuss matters of this nature with my friends, so I don't know whether I am expecting too much of my husband or not. Can you tell me?

YOUNG AT HEART

DEAR YOUNG: The physical capabilities of men vary widely, so there is no telling when one is "finished with that part of his life." Forget whose place it is to take the initiative, and you'll have your answer.

DEAR ABBY: I know you are probably sick of complaints against mothers-in-law, but please help me. Four months ago my mother-in-law came to live with us. She's spry, in good health and a good sport. BUT—she monopolizes every conversation. This is no exaggeration. She talks constantly, no matter where we are; at the dinner table, breakfast table, riding in the car or just sitting in the living room. Her voice drones on and on. All the people in her past are discussed at length, everybody's house, and what they have. And she knows more about any subject than anyone else. She discusses every newspaper article, radio program, and TV show she's ever read, heard or seen. I wouldn't hurt her feelings for the world. And neither would my wife. What, oh what, Dear Abby, can be done?

NO NAME NATURALLY

DEAR NO: Since she is living with you, your wife must get her side and tell her gently, but firmly, that she must give someone else a chance to talk. If she "forgets," she should be quietly reminded. But for the sake of your family's happiness, DON'T let this go on.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I went on a camping trip, at which time the mosquitoes sure had a ball on my ankles. My husband said the bites on my ankles could not possibly have been mosquito bites because the "stinger" or proboscis of a mosquito cannot penetrate an inch-thick woolen bobby sock. I KNOW they were mosquito bites because they were identical to the bites on my arms, and I SAW the mosquitoes biting me there. So who is right?

MRS. W. C. S.

DEAR MRS. W. C. S.: To quote Dr. E. M. Furber, Chief of Dermatology at Stanford's School of Medicine: "The husband and wife are both right! Mosquitoes cannot bite through an inch of woolen sock. But they don't have to because mosquitoes not only fly, they climb up socks and crawl down into them which is apparently what happened. P. S. I hope that is the most serious problem they ever have—the husband and wife, not the mosquitoes." . . .

Killed by Shock Six Days After Brother Drowns

HENDERSON HARBOR, N. Y. (AP)—David Erickson, 21, of Mattydale, was killed Thursday by electric shock, six days after his only brother was drowned in Lake Ontario.

Erickson was wading into Lake Ontario, guiding a boat across a sandbar between two islands. He held a guy wire attached to a mast that hit a 44 volt power line to the YMCA camp on Association Island.

Last Friday, Erickson's brother, Richard, 4, fell from a pier while fishing and was drowned.

The parents of the two boys, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Erickson, live in Mattydale, near Syracuse. They operate a motel in this resort area during the summer.

They have a daughter, Kathleen, 17.

The Chinese invented paper money and printed notes from woodblocks in several denominations as early as 650 A.D.

Says Family More Vital Than School To Push Success

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—If our child gets straight A's in high school, earns three letters in sports, edits the school newspaper and excels in other activities, don't get too excited about it.

Success in high school, a study conducted by a University of Chicago professor shows, has nothing to do with success in later life.

In fact, said Dr. Allison Davis Thursday, "the family does far more to promote success than high school."

Davis told a University of Pittsburgh group that a study of 376 students showed:

There is little or no relation between good grades and later financial success.

There is little or no connection between good grades and the ability to accept family and home responsibilities.

There is no relation between social activities in school "and anything at all in adult life."

Youth Seriously Hurt in Mishap On Dutchess Farm

A 22-year-old Dutchess County youth was seriously injured Thursday, when he was pinned beneath a farm tractor that apparently went out of control and overturned, according to Rhinebeck State Police.

Troopers said Gerald Smith, of Upper Red Hook Road, Rhinebeck, was operating the tractor on the John Rowe farm on Metzger Road, Rhinebeck at the time of the accident.

Authorities believe the mishap occurred about 11 a. m. but Smith was not discovered pinned beneath the tractor until 1:50 p. m. by his employer Raymond Driscoll, of Old Post Road, Rhinebeck.

The youth was extricated and rushed to the Northern Dutchess Hospital, where he was treated for a fractured pelvis and internal injuries. His condition was listed as serious.

According to troopers, Smith apparently lost control of the farm machine and it went down an embankment and overturned. The youth was cutting hay at the time.

Do You Remember

It is just 60 years ago that Ulster County had Judge Alton B. Parker running for president of the United States, against Theodore Roosevelt. One item in the Kingston Weekly Freeman and Journal of Thursday, July 7, 1904 reads: "A large crowd saw the departure of Ulster County Democrats for St. Louis on Sunday afternoon at 5:20 from the West Shore depot."

The car which the party occupied was decorated with pictures of Judge Parker. A large silk flag containing a painting of the judge and the inscription in gold: "For president, Chief Judge Alton B. Parker," also occupied a prominent position. It was to be carried into the convention hall by the Ulster delegation."

The July 1904 paper also announced that A. R. King of the A. R. King Manufacturing Co., was personally superintending the removal of machinery from his former plant in New York to the works on Prince Street in a new building which had been erected for that purpose.

The company was manufacturing embossing and plate printing presses and was to employ 15 men. A number of orders were waiting for the plant to be set up and go ahead. Mr. King was staying at the Huntington during the summer, while his family was in Maine, and they were planning to come to Kingston to live in the fall.

In Kingston in 1904, the American Cigar Company were desperately calling for more help. They had a shortage of about 500 employees, and factory was running on full time. Young men and women were needed at the cigar factory, and it seemed no matter how many applied more were needed. Kingston was an up and coming city in 1904, employment is the life of a community.

In the July 7, 1904 social column, the De Lissers-Schoonmaker wedding is described. It reads in part: On Wednesday, June 29, the old Roggen house, the ancestral home of Mrs. Augustus Schoonmaker, on Crown Street... Miss Anna Masten Schoonmaker, youngest daughter of Mrs. Schoonmaker and the late Judge Schoonmaker, was married to Harry Neville De Lissers, only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lionel De Lissers. In the rose-trimmed parlor the best man was Dr. Glenwood Medaille De Lissers of Bridgeport, Conn. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church."

The wedding of these two well known families of Kingston is further described: Harp music was played by Miss Toulman of New York, violin by Herbert N.

Lord and cello by Nicholas Kohler. As the bridal chorus was played from the balcony upper hall, the bride was escorted by her brother, H. Schoonmaker of New York. During the evening refreshments were served in the quaint old dining room, festive with flowers. The beautiful grounds at the rear of the house were a fairland of Japanese lanterns. With a shower of rice, the newlyweds left. On their return from their honeymoon they were to reside at Inwood, New York City.

It was written they received a "wealth of rich and beautiful gifts." Chief Judge Alton B. Parker, who was running for president of the United States was one of the out-of-town guests. To this day, collectors and historians are enjoying and preserving "Picturesque Ulster" books which were written and pictures photographed for by Lionel De Lissers.

Dear Abby . . .
Speak Up!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband hasn't kissed me since 1959. And then it was only a little peck on the cheek. We are both in our 60's and I would enjoy some affection. I hate to bring it up because I think it's the man's place to. I suppose there is always a chance that he is finished with that part of his life. But if he isn't, what a pity to have it wasted. I don't discuss matters of this nature with my friends, so I don't know whether I am expecting too much of my husband or not. Can you tell me?

YOUNG AT HEART

DEAR ABBY: The physical capabilities of men vary widely, so there is no telling when one is "finished with that part of his life." Forget whose place it is to take the initiative, and you'll have your answer.

DEAR ABBY: I know you are probably sick of complaints against mothers-in-law, but please help me. Four months ago my mother-in-law came to live with us. She's spry, in good health and a good sport. BUT—she monopolizes every conversation. This is no exaggeration. She talks constantly, no matter where we are; at the dinner table, breakfast table, riding in the car or just sitting in the living room. Her voice drones on and on. All the people in her past are discussed at length, everybody's house, and what they have. And she knows more about any subject than anyone else. She discusses every newspaper article, radio program, and TV show she's ever read, heard or seen. I wouldn't hurt her feelings for the world. And neither would my wife. What, oh what, Dear Abby, can be done?

NO NAME NATURALLY

DEAR NO: Since she is living with you, your wife must get her aside and tell her gently, but firmly, that she must give someone else a chance to talk. If she "forgets," she should be quietly reminded. But for the sake of your family's happiness, DON'T let this go on.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I went on a camping trip, at which time the mosquitoes sure had a ball on my ankles. My husband said the bites on my ankles could not possibly have been mosquito bites because the "stinger" or proboscis of a mosquito cannot penetrate an inch-thick woolen bobby sock. I KNOW they were mosquito bites because they were identical to the bites on my arms, and I SAW the mosquitoes biting me there. So who is right?

MRS. W. C. S.

DEAR MRS. W. C. S.: To quote Dr. E. M. Farber, Chief of Dermatology at Stanford's School of Medicine: "The husband and wife are both right! Mosquitoes cannot bite through an inch of woolen sock. But they don't have to because mosquitoes don't only fly, they climb up socks and crawl down into them which is apparently what happened. P. S. I hope that is the most serious problem they ever have—the husband and wife, not the mosquitoes."

Killed by Shock Six Days After Brother Drowns

HENDERSON HARBOR, N. Y. (AP)—David Erickson, 21, of Mattydale, was killed Thursday by electric shock, six days after his only brother was drowned in Lake Ontario.

Erickson was wading into Lake Ontario, guiding a boat across a sandbar between two islands. He held a guy wire attached to a mast that hit a 44 volt power line to the YMCA camp on Association Island.

Last Friday, Erickson's brother, Richard, 4, fell from a pier while fishing and was drowned.

The parents of the two boys, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Erickson, live in Mattydale, near Syracuse. They operate a motel in this resort area during the summer.

They have a daughter, Kathleen, 17.

Says Family More Vital Than School To Push Success

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—If our child gets straight A's in high school, earns three letters in sports, edits the school newspaper and excels in other activities, don't get too excited about it.

Success in high school, a study conducted by a University of Chicago professor shows, has nothing to do with success in later life.

In fact, said Dr. Allison Davis Thursday, "the family does far more to promote success than high school."

Davis told a University of Pittsburgh group that a study of 376 students showed:

There is little or no relation between good grades and later financial success.

There is little or no connection between good grades and the ability to accept family and home responsibilities.

There is no relation between social activities in school "and anything at all in adult life."

Canaries Ordered Out of Auburn Cells

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP) — The State Correction Commission has nothing against stool pigeons, but canaries are something else. It wants them removed from cells in the maximum-security prison here.

"Because of the close quarters in the cells, the difficulties encountered when searching and the unsanitary conditions of some of the bird cages," the commission said in a report, the practice of raising and keeping canaries in cells should be discouraged and eventually eliminated.

Canaries have been allowed in cells many years. Originally, cages were limited to one a cell. But the regulation was relaxed gradually as prisoners were released, and now, the commission said, some cells contain three or four cages.

Auburn State Prison has about 1,700 inmates. The commission did not say how many birds were behind bars.

Noted Pop Artist To Be Guest Speaker In New Paltz July 29

George Segal, one of the country's rising and most successful popular artists, is scheduled to appear as guest speaker at the State University College at New Paltz, Wednesday, July 29. He will address faculty members, guests, and students of the college in the College Theatre beginning at 2 p. m.

Segal's current fame is the result of plaster-cast figures from life, a striking new art form he calls "assembled environments." His idea came about several years ago when he began experimenting with some plaster-saturated tape which doctors used for making casts.

He began by making casts of his friends for fun, and overnight a casual venture became a smashing hit. The former chicken coop on his New Jersey farm is now the site of his plaster studio where he turns out the assemblages.

Segal's figures are cast in three sections, each requiring about 45 minutes work. The most time-consuming part of his art is the carefully adjusting and fitting of the sections to obtain the exact pose desired. These plaster figures are only half of Segal's technique, however. The use of space in his "environments" sets the stage for the total feeling and involvement the artist hopes to convey to those viewing his work.

INTRODUCING WAITRESS

Q: I have dinner several nights a week at a certain restaurant. The same waitress serves me all the time and I have gotten to know her quite well. I call her by first name and she calls me Mr. Jones. When I have guests dining with me, would it be proper to introduce her to them?

A: To introduce her might easily embarrass her, but to ask when she comes to take your orders, "Mary, what's good today?" and then add to your guests, "Mary is the best waitress here and always knows what dishes are especially good," will surely please her.

A Double Wedding

Q: My sister and I are contemplating a double wedding and we have run into several problems which we would like you to help us with. (1) Does my father take us both up the aisle at one time, one on each arm? (2) Must we wear identical bridal gowns? (3) Is it necessary to have two wedding cakes, or will one be sufficient?

A: Your father takes his older daughter up the aisle and a brother, or next nearest male relative, takes the younger bride. (2) They need not be identical but they must look well together. (3) There are two wedding cakes—one for each bride.

Wedding Gift of Money

Q: My husband's cousin is to be married in a few weeks and we intend to give her money for a wedding present. Several other relatives are giving her money, too, which they intend to present to her at the wedding. Is this proper? I have seen guests at other weddings do this but it never seemed right to me. I would like your opinion on the correct way of presenting money to a bride.

A: Correctly, a check is sent to the bride before the wedding. To hand her money at the reception is not proper.

How and when to introduce people seems to puzzle many. The Emily Post Institute booklet, entitled, "Introductions," gives helpful information on this subject. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Freeman.

Mrs. Yehudi Wyner Resigns as Chairman Of Turnau Friends

At a recent meeting of the executive board of the Friends of the Turnau Opera Association the resignation of Mrs. Yehudi Wyner as chairman of the board was accepted with regret.

A founder and leader of the Association, Mrs. Wyner resigned because of the press of personal business.

Mrs. Gordon Anderson of Woodstock was appointed a member of the board to fill the vacancy. Elected co-chairmen were Mrs. Roland Galen of New York City and Woodstock and Peter Rakov of Woodstock, formerly vice-chairman.

Rakov announced that while the Association has raised $3,000 thus far, the group is still short of its goal. He stated that additional funds are urgently needed to maintain the present high standards of Turnau Opera.

Of the 1963 season The New York Times commented that "the performances that give Turnau its universally sold-out audiences in Woodstock are non-stereotyped, spontaneous, completely intelligible and models of opera in English."

The annual meeting of all members for the election of officers and for the reports of the board is scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 19 at 8 p. m. in Deanie's Restaurant in Woodstock.

Canaries Ordered Out of Auburn Cells

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—The State Correction Commission has nothing against stool pigeons, but canaries are something else. It wants them removed from cells in the maximum-security prison here.

"Because of the close quarters in the cells, the difficulties encountered when searching and the unsanitary conditions of some of the bird cages," the commission said in a report, the practice of raising and keeping canaries in cells should be discouraged and eventually eliminated.

Canaries have been allowed in cells many years. Originally, cages were limited to one a cell. But the regulation was relaxed gradually as prisoners were released, and now, the commission said, some cells contain three or four cages.

Auburn State Prison has about 1,700 inmates. The commission did not say how many birds were behind bars.

FBI Seizes Trio Under CR Act

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—The FBI has made its first arrests under the public accommodations sections of the new Civil Rights Act.

Agents of the bureau charged three Greenwood white men with a conspiracy designed to keep a Negro from going to a downtown movie theatre.

The three men, Willie Amos, 47, a plumber; his son, Jimmy Allen, 19, and Sam Allen, 18, a Negro, were charged with "unlawfully conspiring to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate" Silas McGhee, 21, of Greenwood, "in the free exercise of his right to full and equal enjoyment of a motion picture house, the Leflore Theatre."

The theatre management declined comment.

The FBI gave this report: On July 16, McGhee staggered into the Greenwood FBI office, bleeding from head wounds and suffering from shock.

McGhee, a staff worker with the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, said three men in a pickup truck forced him at the point of a gun to accompany them.

He said they asked him if he had been to the movie the previous night. When he replied yes he was beaten with a pipe and a board.

According to Roy C. Beckwith, entomologist of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, such nocturnal insects as the Asiatic beetle, June bug, violet sawfly and cutworms do considerable damage to trees and shrubs.

The Asiatic beetle chews irregular holes, usually in leaf margins, of a variety of trees, rhododendron, laurel, aster, dahlia and chrysanthemum. June bugs feed on pi oak leaves.

Cutworms shear off plants or feed on leaves, buds and fruit of trees. Slugs are most injurious just before dawn. These nighttime pests can be controlled by spraying during the day, using a good insecticide with a long residual action. Two or three applications during the summer are recommended. Outdoor lights may lure insects on the night shift to homes, shopping centers, courtyards, even churchyards.

Digging for Old Skeleton

MARMARTH, N.D. (AP)—University of North Dakota geologists are trying to dig up the remains of a dinosaur believed to be 80 million years old.

The partially exposed skeleton of a triceratops was found by a student mapping an area of southwestern North Dakota last summer. The beast appeared to be about 20 feet long and 10 feet high, said Prof. F. D. Holland.

Johnson Helps Scouts Close 6th Annual Jamboree

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP)—President Johnson told 52,000 cheering Boy Scouts at Valley Forge that the U.S. government "exists to protect the freedom and enlarge the opportunities of every citizen" and thus should "not be feared or attacked."

The government, he said Thursday night, "is to be helped as long as it serves the country well, and changed when it neglects its duty."

Although Johnson did not mention Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate, by name, it appeared he was taking this opportunity to renew his defense of the government against Goldwater's criticism.

The Arizona senator frequently has charged that the federal government has grown too large and too centralized.

Overhead, a small plane, faintly outlined by the moon, pulled a banner that read "Goldwater '64." Johnson gave no indication that he saw it.

The President received a tumultuous reception when he arrived to help the scouts close their sixth national jamboree and receive their Silver Buffalo award for "distinguished service to boyhood."

Shortly before Johnson spoke,

Jay T. Leekley, 15-year-old life scout from Appleton, Wis., was killed by a bus when he darted out behind a parked car. He apparently was running to catch up with his troop marching to the giant arena.

Heart attacks earlier this week killed two assistant scoutmasters.

Today, 42,000 scouts leave for home by bus, train, plane and auto. Saturday, the rest break camp and the city of 30,000 tents will be no more.

FBI Seizes Trio Under CR Act

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—The FBI has made its first arrests under the public accommodations sections of the new Civil Rights Act.

Agents of the bureau charged three Greenwood white men with a conspiracy designed to keep a Negro from going to a downtown movie theatre.

The three men, Willie Amos Belk, 47, a plumber; his son, Jimmy Allen Belk, 19, and Sam Allen Shafer Jr., 40, a Belk employee, posted $1,000 bonds before U.S. Commissioner W. O. Luckett at nearby Clarksdale following their arrest Thursday.

The FBI charged the three with "unlawfully conspiring to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate" Silas McGhee, 21, of Greenwood, "in the free exercise of his right to full and equal enjoyment of a motion picture house, the Leflore Theatre."

The theatre management declined comment.

The FBI gave this report: On July 16, McGhee staggered into the Greenwood FBI office, bleeding from head wounds and suffering from shock.

McGhee, a staff worker with the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, said three men in a pickup truck forced him at the point of a gun to accompany them.

He said they asked him if he had been to the movie the previous night. When he replied yes he was beaten with a pipe and a board.

Greene Study Is

To Start August 1

OnRefuseDisposal

AIBANY — Greene County will become the first county in the state to conduct an engineering study on the location and design of refuse disposal sites to comply with the new Refuse Disposal Code, Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, State Health Commissioner, announced today.

The new Amendment, Part 19 of the Refuse Disposal Code, prohibits open dumps and the burning of refuse. It requires refuse at disposal areas to be covered with at least six inches of earth daily and a final compacted cover of at least two feet of earth.

A Health Department survey at the end of 1963 showed that there were only 80 sanitary landfills operating among the 1,546 municipalities in the state. "The cost of planning and constructing sanitary landfills has led to delay in many areas," Dr. Ingraham said, "but each community must solve its refuse disposal problem in the near future."

"Area-wide engineering studies, like the one to be conducted in Greene County, often enable small adjoining communities to pool their resources. In many cases this is the most efficient and economical way to deal with the refuse disposal problem," Dr. Ingraham said.

The Greene County study begins Aug. 1. It will be financed by an interest-free loan of $4,750 from the Community Facilities Administration of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Profits Brighten For East Rails

NEW YORK (AP)—The profit picture for Eastern railroads has brightened.

The Pennsylvania, New York Central and Norfolk & Western railroads reported Thursday big gains in earnings for the second quarter and first half of this year.

Tighter cost controls and increased freight revenues were credited for the improvement.

The Pennsylvania, the nation's largest, earned $11,628,500, or 85 cents a share, in the first half against a loss of $1,119,779 in the 1963 period.

In the second quarter the line's profits totaled $8,460,200, or 62 cents a share, compared with $6,825,300, or 51 cents a share, a year earlier.

The Central reaped its highest first half profits since 1946. Its income of $10,788,751, equal to $1.63 a share, compared with a loss of $4,412,407 in the 1963 first half.

For the second quarter the Central's earnings were $9,753,574, or $1.47 a share, against $3,474,715, or 53 cents a share, a year earlier.

Norfolk & Western's first half net income rose to $35,190,403, or $4.69 a share, from $31,360,394, or $4.18 a share.

In the second quarter, the railroad's profits amounted to $18,825,832, or $2.51 a share, up from $17,943,170.

Johnson Helps Scouts Close 6th Annual Jamboree

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP)—President Johnson told 52,000 cheering Boy Scouts at Valley Forge that the U.S. government "exists to protect the freedom and enlarge the opportunities of every citizen" and thus should "not be feared or attacked."

Heart attacks earlier this week killed two assistant scoutmasters.

Today, 42,000 scouts leave for home by bus, train, plane and auto. Saturday, the rest break camp and the city of 30,000 tents will be no more.

The five women and six men hoped to average 150 to 175 miles a day and reach New York Aug. 9.

Regime Nearly Duplicates Moro's Old Government

ROME (AP) — Premier Aldo Moro was sworn in Thursday with a new center-left coalition government virtually duplicating the Cabinet that folded 27 days ago.

Only two changes appeared in the new government, which is the 26th since the fall of fascism in 1945. Like Moro's earlier regime, it has 16 ministers from his Christian Democrat party, 6 Socialists, 3 Democratic Socialists and 1 Republican.

Veteran Socialist leader Pietro Nenni stayed on as vice premier and Democratic Socialist Giuseppe Saragat remained as foreign minister.

The premier replaced Budget Minister Antonio Giolitti, a former Communist turned Socialist, and Labor Minister Giacinto Bosco, a Christian Democrat. Both represented factions in their parties that opposed a new center-left regime.

Moro announced his acceptance of the premiership Wednesday night after weeks of political bickering that opened new rifts in the coalition and roused speculation as to how long his new government could survive.

The new regime must go before Parliament for a vote of approval, which may take two or three weeks. Since the coalition has 630 seats in the Chamber of Deputies, endorsement is assured barring party revolts.

Moro also still faces the grave economic situation that plagued his last regime, marked by strikes, falling stock market prices and inflation.

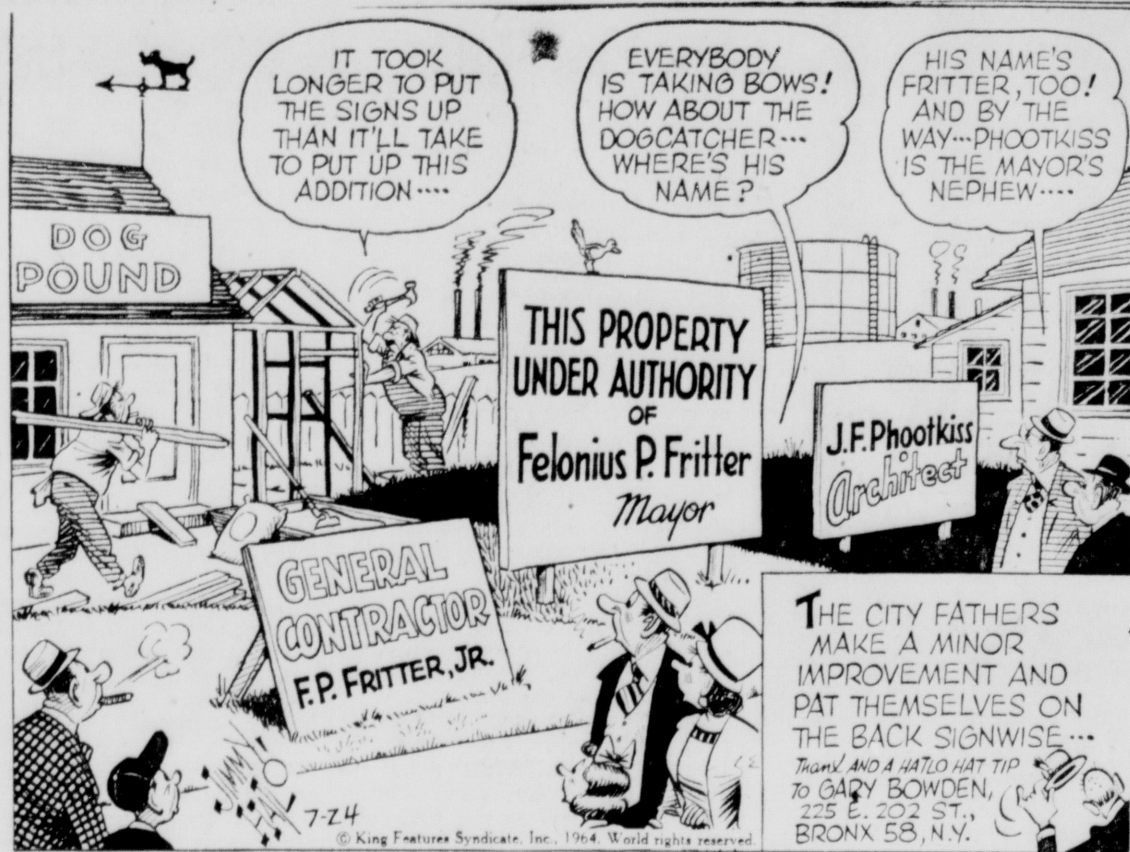

Get Million in Gems

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Four masked men shot a policeman and another man Thursday as they held up a jewelry store near the Monte Carlo Casino and escaped with more than $1 million worth of gems.

A number of passersby witnessed the quick operation. Some residents of the fashionable Hotel De Paris leaned from their hotel windows to watch.

It was the fourth holdup of the Clerc Jewelry Shop in the past decade. The owners have estimated their losses in the four robberies at 12,260,000 francs ($2.45 million). The haul in today's holdup was estimated by them at 7 million francs ($1.4 million).

Actor's Workshop Refuses to Leave Frisco Outpost

By WILLIAM GLOVER Associated Press Drama Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Actor's Workshop is a dandy example of how to succeed by being stubborn.

One of the country's best-known, most-lauded theater ventures, it has struggled long against civic apathy. That is where determination comes in.

"In any other city, we'd be doing a lot better," says Jules Irving who founded the group 14 years ago with Herbert Blau.

"That's the reason we've got to do it here—and it can be done."

Irving and Blau, New Yorkers who believe that the destiny of American theatrical entertainment lies with resident troupes far from Broadway, stressed their fixity of purpose recently by passing up a tantalizing offer of permanent security for the project—because it would have had to leave San Francisco.

Stanford University proposed professorships for both and enticing production facilities if the workshop moved to Palo Alto, 30 miles away.

The bid was declined at just about the time the Workshop lost out on an effort to acquire a venerable playhouse as a permanent home. Supporters rallied substantial sums, but the property went to a church.

Recently there have been indications that city officials will do something for the group beyond the token contribution of $10,000, given out of the municipal hotel tax during the past couple of years to the Workshop's $300,000 annual budget.

Irving said Mayor John F. Shelley notified him: "This administration is determined to make amends for the neglect of the past."

Under consideration is a plan to allocate space for construction of a Workshop center in a park which is being developed around the old ferry building landmark at the foot of Market Street.

During its career of 82 productions through this season, the Workshop has played in a loft over a judo school, in an abandoned car storage plant and, currently, stages dramas in two playhouses—one the auditorium of a Marine veterans association, the other a basement two blocks away.

The costume and scenery shops are in a backyard five miles across town, and rehearsal facilities are midway between over a sponge factory.

Enlistee's Medal

The Congressional Medal of Honor first was created for enlisted men only, in 1861, for the Navy, and a year later for the Army. Officers were admitted later, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Another phase of the Workshop's recognition campaign is directed at audience expansion. Attendance averages 52 per cent of capacity—about 75 per cent would assure fiscal ease. During the past two seasons the Workshop has had annual aid of $98,000 from the Ford foundation.

The Workshop over the years has achieved a notable record of accomplishment that has included original works as well as classics.

Since 1954 it has used professional actors only.

Barry Picks Up Dixie Strength, Still Trails LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharp upswing of voter support in the South has boosted Sen. Barry Goldwater's popularity, but he still trails President Johnson nationally by 64 per cent to 36, according to the latest Louis Harris poll.

Goldwater swept into a clear lead in the South, with the support of 55 per cent of those polled.

The poll, copyrighted by the Washington Post, showed that before the Republican National Convention, Johnson led nationally 72-22, with 6 per cent undecided.

The same voters, questioned after the convention, preferred Johnson 61-31, with 8 per cent undecided.

When the undecided voters discounted, Johnson's lead fell from 74-26 before the convention to 64-36 afterward.

President Johnson leads in the other three sections: in the East, 74-26; in the Midwest, 64-36; and in the West, 69-31.

Johnson's overall 64-36 per cent lead, the Harris poll said, was the widest enjoyed by any candidate for president in modern times at this stage of the campaign.

Tennis 'Love'

The term "love" used to mean zero in a tennis match comes from the French "l'oeuf" meaning "egg" or "zero." When tennis was introduced into England from France, the term came with the game but was spelled "love."

How many brewers do you know who put the ingredients right on the label?

Let me start right off by saying that a brewer is not required to list the ingredients that go into his bottle of beer.

But we do it anyway.

My father was so proud of the ingredients he used that he put them right on the label for the whole world to see.

You can still see them there today on every bottle of Utica Club: "Best barley malt, rice, grain, choicest hops. Absolutely pure."

No syrups or extracts, even though they'd be much more convenient to handle. We use whole grains only.

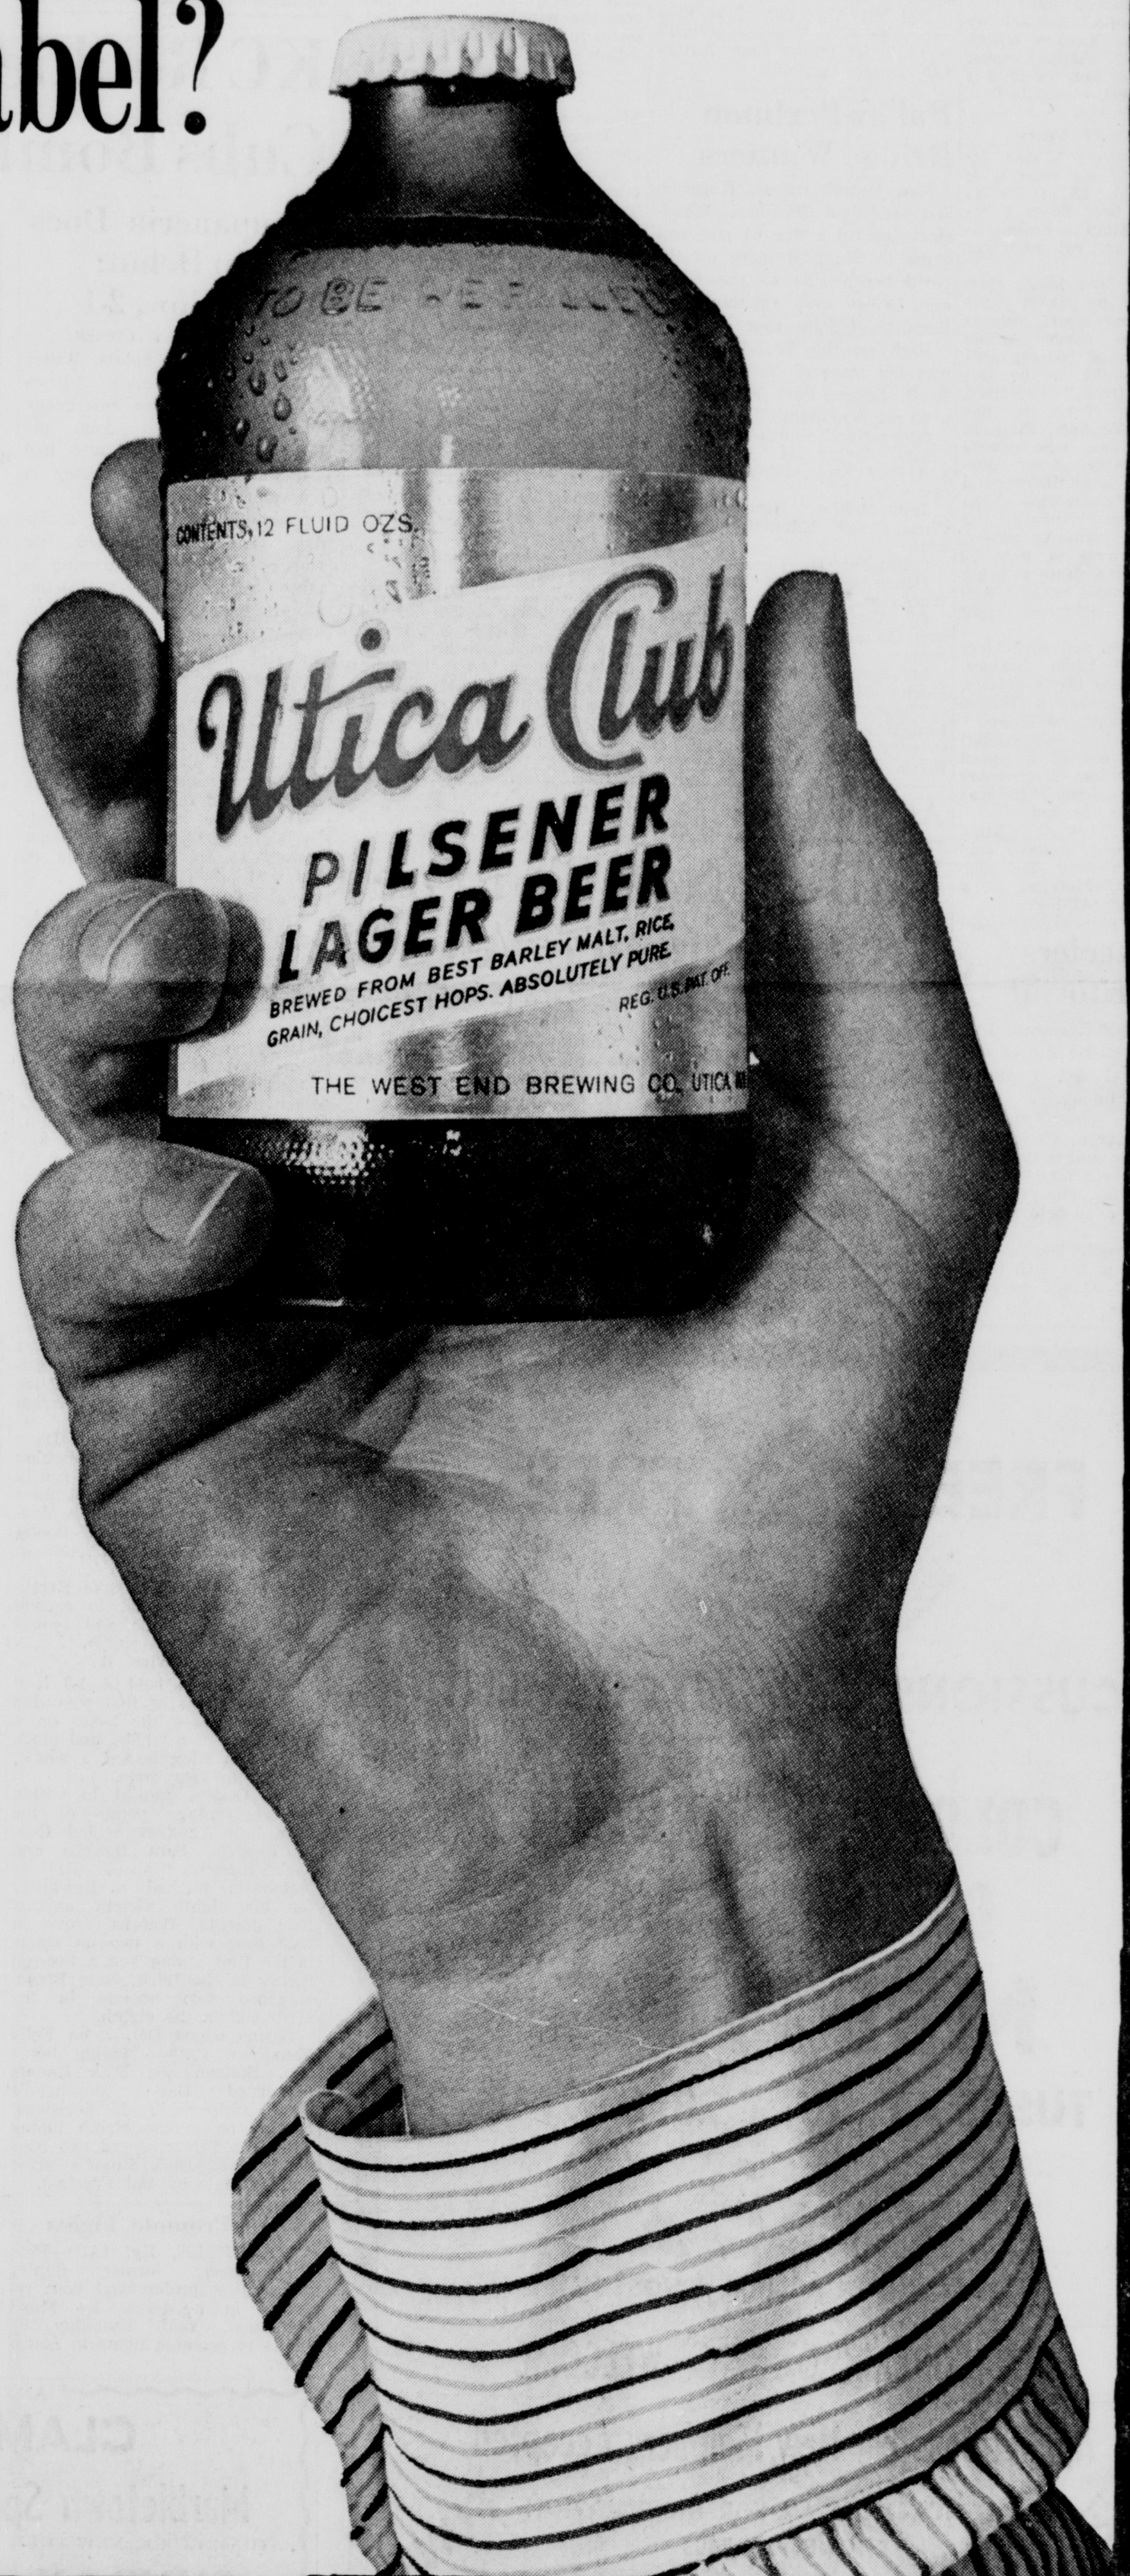

And when we say absolutely pure, it means that Utica Club beer is made entirely from the harvest.

Ever since I can remember, we've used choice grade malt in Utica Club beer, and that's not just a flowery figure of speech. It's a specific grade—the highest grade of malt on the market.

We could just as easily use what they call "run of the mill" malt and save a pretty penny. But we don't. Because the beer wouldn't taste as clean or as mellow. And if we can appreciate the difference ourselves, we figure that you can too.

Now if you put all that into your beer, wouldn't you want the whole world to know about it?

Youngsters Keep Yankee Dynasty Going On and On

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — The Yankees have never won a pennant in a year ending with a "4," but even that moth-eaten whammy figures to be knocked out of the box this season.

Indeed, after what happened in 1963, a lot of people wonder if the Bombers ever will be beaten again.

New York won by 10½ games last year, despite the fact that Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris were sorely hobbled and out a good share of the time. If the so-called challengers could not make a run at the Bronx outfit with its two big weapons stilled, how in the world are they going to stop them with the M boys all in one piece?

The Yankees have bagged 28 pennants in 43 campaigns, currently are bidding high for their fifth straight. How long is this dominance of the American League going to continue?

"Forever, I hope," said Johnny Johnson, in the Yankee offices high up at 745 Fifth Avenue. "Over-all, the club on the field is young and there is a steady flow of new talent."

With Club 18 Years

Johnson, one-time Staten Island sandlotter, has been with the Yankees for 18 of his 42 years. He has been farm director since Lee MacPhail went to Baltimore as general manager in 1958.

Who are the farm hands closest to crashing the parent club?

"The first-year draft rule is forcing us to consider Archie Moore, a left-hand batting outfielder who ought to be out learning the trade," explained Johnson. "Like Maris, he has the perfect Yankee Stadium stroke. Chet Trail, who counts against the roster as our designated player, is an 18-year-old shortstop with Greensboro of the Carolina League. He has all the raw equipment including power."

"Mel Stottlemyre is only 20 but we wouldn't hesitate to bring up this right-hand sinker ball pitcher from Richmond right now."

Johnson named two outfielders with Richmond—Elvio Jimenez, brother of Kansas City's Manny, and Arturo Lopez, a Puerto Rican swiftly from the Bronx.

"Bill Skiff (chief of scouts) plucked Lopez out of a tryout at Yankee Stadium four years ago," recalled Johnny. "He was a bank teller at the time."

With Elston Howard getting old, Yankee foragers have concentrated on catchers. The club is high on Billy Madden, 22, a Southern League All-Star.

Kart Wheelers Has Territorial

Kart Wheelers Raceway, Inc. of Clintondale is the site of the I.K.F. Territorial No. 1 slated Saturday and Sunday.

This territory covers the entire northeast from Canada to Virginia to Ohio and is the largest of the fourteen territories in the United States. The race will be the largest ever held in this area.

Time trials will be held on Saturday at 1 p. m. with heats beginning at 2 o'clock on Sunday.

Legion Squad Plays in Albany On Saturday

Old Capital Motors, representing Kingston Legion Post No. 150, will collide with the winner of tonight's Kinderhook-Catskill game at 4 o'clock Saturday at Albany's Bleeker Stadium in a district elimination contest.

The locals captured the Ulster County eliminations by winning three straight games. Players are requested to be at the Legion home at 12:30 on Saturday.

Dale's Wins, 11-5 Over Lodge Team

Dale's Chevron won its second game of the season in the Saugerties Softball League, 11-5, last night over Hunting Lodge.

Shortstop Bob Myers hit a three-run homer and a single to pace the winners. Ralph Childers, the winning pitcher, had a bases loaded double.

KC Rookie Hits 2 Home Runs; Cubs Bomb O'Dell in 13-4 Win

Campaneria Does Well in Debut; Yanks Bow, 2-1

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Berto Campaneris, a 21-year-old Cuban, made an emergency overnight trip to join the Kansas City Athletics, who had lost shortstop Wayne Causey in a baseline accident.

Shortly after arriving Thursday, Campaneris clouted two homers and a single, driving in three runs, as the Athletics nipped Minnesota 4-3 in 11 innings. The rookie also walked and stole a base while the Twins dropped their eighth consecutive game.

In the first inning, in his first major league time at bat, Jim Kaat's first pitch came in, and Campaneris slammed it over the left field fence.

That made the shortstop only the sixth player in major league history to hit a home run on the first pitch.

Only the Second

Then in the seventh inning, he again hit a Kaat pitch over the left field fence, this time with a man on. That hit gave him the distinction of being only the second in modern history to hit two homers in his first game.

Bob Nieman did it with the St. Louis Browns in 1951.

Curiously enough, one of the other five players to hit a first-pitch homer was Hoyt Wilhelm. The veteran pitcher got a key single Thursday in Chicago's 2-1 victory over Los Angeles in another 11-inning contest.

Elsewhere in the AL, Washington edged New York 2-1, Baltimore trounced Cleveland 7-1 and Boston trimmed Detroit 4-3.

Allen in Quarter-Final Play Of State Men's Golf Tournney

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A hot putter and a cool disdainer for water hazards moved defending champion Don Allen of Rochester into today's quarter-finals in the New York State Men's Amateur Golf Tournament.

Allen scored a fourth-round victory Thursday over Bill Leagans of Ithaca on the 18th green. He had come from behind on the previous hole with the help of an 80-foot putt for a birdie 2.

Both 17 and 18 on the Cooperstown Country Club course are water holes. Leagans hooked into the drink on the 18th and, after counting five strokes, conceded the match.

The water gave Allen no trouble.

In today's morning round, Allen was paired with Hugh Skelley of Armonk, who gained the quarter-finals with a 2 and 1 victory over Joe Smith Jr. of Newburgh.

The winners in the morning round were matched in the semi-finals this afternoon over the parched 6,554-yard course.

Roberts Wins 266th Contest; Ties Bob Feller and Rixey

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — When Cleveland pinch hitter Fred Whitfield sliced a hit off the left field wall Thursday night, Baltimore third baseman Brooks Robinson yelled to Oriole pitcher Robin Roberts:

"Well, you held him to a double, anyhow."

It wasn't dissension in the ranks. Just a bit of friendly needling on a team battling for the American League lead.

"With a six-run lead, Brooks thought he would throw that in there," Roberts said after he had whipped the Indians 7-1. "He thought he was being funny."

The victory by the 37-year-old Oriole right-hander was a big one. It ended a three-game losing streak, enabled the Orioles to regain a virtual first-place tie with the New York Yankees, and provided a tired Baltimore bullpen staff with a much needed rest.

It was also the 266th major league victory for Roberts, moving him into an 18th place tie with Bob Feller and Eppa Rixey on the all-time list of winners.

"I can't remember many statistics," Roberts said, "but I do know that Whitfield is 11-for-13 against me over the past two seasons. He's only mixed in a couple of singles. Brooks didn't know the totals, but he knew Whitfield hits me hard."

Seneca Decisions Sioux Club, 11-1

Seneca had an easy time in disposing of Sioux, 11-1, in a Metropolitan Knolthole league contest. The winners had two runs in each of the first, third and fourth frames and added five in the sixth.

Doug Brayman and Bill Gimble slammed triples while Joe Bouboltz and Brayman had doubles, Tom Gummer had four straight hits for the winners.

Youngsters Keep Yankee Dynasty Going On and On

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — The Yankees have never won a pennant in a year ending with a "4," but even that moth-eaten whammy figures to be knocked out of the box this season.

Indeed, after what happened in 1963, a lot of people wonder if the Bombers ever will be beaten again.

New York won by 10½ games last year, despite the fact that Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris were sorely hobbled and out a good share of the time. If the so-called "challengers" could not make a run at the Bronx outfit with its two big weapons stilled, how in the world are they going to stop them with the M boys all in one piece?

The Yankees have bagged 28 pennants in 43 campaigns, currently are bidding high for their fifth straight. How long is this dominance of the American League going to continue?

"Forever, I hope," said Johnny Johnson, the Yankee office high up at 745 Fifth Avenue. "Over-all, the club on the field is young and there is a steady flow of new talent."

With Club 18 Years

Johnson, one-time Staten Island sandlotter, has been with the Yankees for 18 of his 42 years. He has been farm director since Lee MacPhail went to Baltimore as general manager in 1958.

Who are the farm hands closest to crashing the parent club? The first-year draft rule is forcing us to carry Archie Moore, a left-hand batting outfielder who ought to be out learning the trade," explained Johnson. "Like Maris, he has the perfect Yankee Stadium stroke. Chet Trail, who counts against the roster as our designated player, is an 18-year-old shortstop with Greensboro of the Carolina League. He has all the raw equipment including power.

"Mel Stottlemyre is only 20 but we wouldn't hesitate to bring up this right-hand sinker ball pitcher from Richmond right now."

Johnson named two outfielders with Richmond—Elvio Jimenez, brother of Kansas City's Manny, and Arturo Lopez, a Puerto Rican swiftly from the Bronx.

"Bill Skiff (chief of scouts) plucked Lopez out of a tryout at Yankee Stadium four years ago," recalled Johnny. "He was a bank teller at the time."

With Elston Howard getting old, Yankee foragers have concentrated on catchers. The club is high on Billy Madden, 22, a Southern League All-Star.

Kart Wheelers Has Territorial

Kart Wheelers Raceway, Inc. of Clintondale is the site of the IKF Territorial No. 1 slated Saturday and Sunday.

This territory covers the entire northeast from Canada to Virginia to Ohio and is the largest of the fourteen territories in the United States. The race will be the largest ever held in this area.

Time trials will be held on Saturday at 1 p. m. with heats beginning at 2 o'clock on Sunday.

"A left-hand power hitter," commented Johnson, who went out of his way to point out that the club had not given up on Jake Gibbs, who was Mississippi's All-America quarterback when given a $100,000 bonus.

Signed 46

The Yankees signed 46 hopefuls this year—17 pitchers, seven catchers, 12 infielders and 10 outfielders. The perennial AL champions went Ivy League in the process, signing kids like Paul Del Rossi, left-hand Harvard pitcher, and Steve Dichter, a line-drive hitter who played center field for Dartmouth. Another collegian is Johnny Monteleone, a third baseman from Seton Hall.

"We believe we have another fine catcher in Frank Gusti, 18," beamed Johnson. "A brother of the Houston pitcher, Dave he won 10 letters in high school."

Johnny Johnson rattled off a lot more names, making it clear that there could be genuine discoveries among them.

You left more convinced than ever that the Yankees weren't about to let up on their American League pigeons.

Shortly after arriving Thursday, Campaneria clouted two homers and a single, driving in three runs, as the Athletics nipped Minnesota 4-3 in 11 innings. The rookie also walked and stole a base while the Twins dropped their eighth consecutive game.

In the first inning, in his first major league time at bat, Jim Kaat's first pitch came in, and Campaneria slammed it over the left field fence.

That made the shortstop only the sixth player in major league history to hit a home run on the first pitch.

Only the Second

Then in the seventh inning, he again hit a Kaat pitch over the left field fence, this time with a man on. That hit gave him the distinction of being only the second in modern history to hit two homers in his first game.

Elsewhere in the AL, Washington edged New York 2-1, Baltimore trounced Cleveland 7-1 and Boston trimmed Detroit 4-3.

Campaneria's second homer tied the game 3-3 after Harmon Killebrew's 34th homer with two aboard gave the Twins a 3-1 lead in the sixth inn'. Doc Edwards won it for the Athletics with a homer off Gerry Arrigo in the 11th.

The White Sox broke Dean Chance's scoreless pitching string at 27 innings with a run in the first but had to wait 10 more innings for the triumph. A double by Felix Torres and Bobby Knoop's single tied the game in the Angels' eighth.

Then in the 11th, Mike Hershberger walked, went to second on Wilhelm's single and scored on Tom McCraw's single.

King Wins It

The Yankees held a 1-0 lead until the eighth. At that point the Senators loaded the bases on a double and two walks, and pinch hitter Jim King lashed a single, driving in two runs.

The Orioles moved to within five percentage points of the first-place Yankees behind Bob Roberts, Sam Bowens and Dick Brown.

Roberts pitched a five-hitter for his eighth victory against four defeats. Bowens drove in four runs with a two-run single in the first inning and a two-run homer in the third while Brown smashed solo homers in the sixth and in the eighth.

Boston edged Detroit on Felix Mantilla's sixth-inning home run. Bullpen ace Dick Radatz preserved Dave Morehead's sixth victory in 16 decisions, coming on in the eighth inning when the Tigers scored two runs on a walk, Dick Stuart's error and a single by Bill Freehan.

The Reds beat the Mets with the aid of two errors, the decisive run scoring in the sixth on errors by Rod Kanehl and Charlie Smith sandwiched around a single by John Edwards.

Bob Bailey and Bill Virdon each collected a homer among their three hits as the Pirates thumped Mike Cuellar and three successors. Pittsburgh wound up the three-game series at St. Louis with 46 hits and 31 runs.

The Dodgers trailed 4-2 going into the ninth when Nate Olivieri's single, a walk and Maury Wills' single produced a run.

Willie Davis then beat out an infield hit, loading the bases, and Ron Fairly wrapped it up with two-out, two run single. It was his third hit of the night.

Murphy also had little trouble in defeating John Wilski of New York Mills, 6 and 5. In the four rounds of golf so far, Murphy has played only 52 holes.

Yahn, a member of the University of Michigan golf team and state junior champion in 1960, scored a 2-up victory over Bob Botsford of Poughkeepsie when Botsford put a ball in the water hazard on the last hole.

BALTIMORE (AP) — When Cleveland pinch hitter Fred Whitfield sliced a hit off the left field wall Thursday night, Baltimore third baseman Brooks Robinson yelled to Oriole pitcher Robin Roberts:

"Well," you held him to a double, anyhow."

It wasn't dissension in the ranks. Just a bit of friendly needling on a team battling for the American League lead.

"With a six-run lead, Brooks thought he would throw that in there," Roberts said after he had whipped the Indians 7-1. "He thought he was being funny."

The victory by the 37-year-old Oriole right-hander was a big one. It ended a three-game losing streak, enabled the Orioles to regain a virtual first-place tie with the New York Yankees, and provided a tired Baltimore bullpen staff with a much needed rest.

It was also the 266th major league victory for Roberts, moving him into an 18th place tie with Bob Feller and Eppa Rixey on the all-time list of winners.

"I can't remember many statistics," Roberts said, "but I do know that Whitfield is 11-for-13 against me over the past two seasons. He's only mixed in a couple of singles. Brooks didn't know the totals, but he knew Whitfield hits me hard."

Seneca Decisions

Seneca had an easy time in disposing of Sioux, 11-1, in a Metropolitan Knott-hole league contest. The winners had two runs in each of the first, third and fourth frames and added five in the sixth.

Doug Brayman and Bill Gimble slammed triples while Joe Buboltz and Brayman had doubles. Tom Gummer had four straight hits for the winners.

Drysdale Suffers Broken Finger; Out for 10 Days

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Better skip Saturday," Don Drysdale was told.

"Why, because we're playing the Giants?" Drysdale asked, grinning.

No, said the doctor, because your finger's fractured.

That's the news the right-handed ace of the Los Angeles Dodgers' pitching staff received Thursday—on his 28th birthday.

Drysdale's injury, which will keep him idle for about 10 days, was just one of five serious injuries that sidelined key personnel.

The National League leading Philadelphia Phillies lost 300-hitting Danny Cater for at least six weeks and possibly the rest of the season, Baltimore pitcher Chuck Estrada and St. Louis hurler Ray Washburn were placed on the disabled list and Kansas City lost shortstop Wayne Causey for 10 days.

Drysdale suffered a hairline fracture at the base of his right thumb while shagging flies Wednesday night before the game against Houston.

Drysdale, who has a 12-9 record for the eighth-place Dodgers, said he hurt the thumb "trying to pick up a ball that took a skip and stayed down."

Cater broke his left wrist Wednesday night in a collision with Milwaukee's Joe Torre at first base. Cater tripped over Torre's arm as the first baseman reached for a low throw. He will be out at least six weeks.

Estrada, a 26-year-old right-hander who won 18 games in 1960 and 15 in 1961, underwent an operation last year to remove a bone spur and calcium deposits from his elbow. The arm has not responded and Estrada had pitched only 52 innings, and is 3-1.

Washburn, a promising youngster who was sidelined most of last season with arm trouble, complained of pain while pitching against the Pirates. X rays showed calcification of his right shoulder joint. Washburn had a 3-4 record this season.

Causey, hitting .290, had an accident similar to Cater's but escaped with less serious injuries. Causey's left elbow was injured in a collision with Minnesota's first baseman Bob Allison.

18 Vote Haulers Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—Teamsters Union headquarters said Thursday 18 striking Eastern local unions have voted to accept a new contract with auto hauling firms and are being notified to return to work.

"The vote was favorable for settlement," said a spokesman for Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa.

He said the exact tally among the approximately 4,000 members of the 18 locals is not yet known, but that a majority had voted to accept the latest contract proposals.

The vote was the third one taken since the Eastern conference locals from New England to North Carolina went on strike several weeks ago.

The latest vote had been ordered by Hoffa.

The strike had tied up delivery of thousands of new cars.

AYRES CAPTURES YONKERS FUTURITY

It's one down and two to go for Ayres, a fleet son of Star's Pride, enroute to trotting's elusive Triple Crown.

The colt set a track record for 3-year-old trotters Thursday night at Yonkers Raceway in capturing the $116,691.25 Yonkers Futurity.

The victory put Ayres in line for the Triple Crown, a feat accomplished only by Scott Frost in 1955 and Speedy Scot in 1963. He must win the Hambletonian on Sept. 2 and the Kentucky Futurity on Oct. 9 to enter the select circle.

Speedy Count was second, 3 1/2-lengths back, and Dartmouth was third.

The colt set a track record night at Yonkers Raceway in harness racing action:

Saratoga Raceway — Poplar Hanover ($30.30), with a clocking of 2:03.4-5 in the first division, capped the trophy in the $15,000 pace Yankee Dart ($20.60) won division two in 2:06.

Batavia Downs — Chief Maynard ($2.30) and longshot Alex Adios ($35.60) each won divisions in the New York State Sires Stakes for 3-year-old pacers. Chief Maynard turned in a time of 2:05 and Yankee Luck a 2:08.

Vernon Downs — Keep Away ($17.50) won the $2,000 pace for 2-year-olds in 2:02.1-5.

Mother, 72, Dies, Who Saved Imprisoned Son

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Tillie Majczek, 72, who scrubbed floors 11 years to win the release of her son from prison after he had been falsely convicted of murder, died Thursday.

Mrs. Majczek raised $5,000 and placed an advertisement in a Chicago newspaper offering it as a reward for the capture of the real murderer.

An investigation showed a witness at her son's trial had perjured himself. On Aug. 14, 1945, Joe Majczek was pardoned after serving nearly 12 years.

A movie, "Call Northside 777," was made from the incident.

Severity of demeanor in women is a species of decoration and paint which they add to their beauty.

There is no fool like an old fool. You just can't beat experience.

It is necessary to hope, though hope should have always been deluded; for hope itself is happiness, and its frustrations, however frequent, are yet less dreadful than its extinction.

Foreman (to one of his men) — You told me how good you were when I hired you 2 weeks ago. Now tell me all over again: I'm getting discouraged.

Eternity is in love with the productions of time.

A Speaker — One of our ministerial friends was telling about making a pastoral call on a parishioner who had been confined to his bed for several weeks. As he was about to leave the minister asked if he should offer prayer.

Patient — Oh, I guess you needn't mind, I don't think I'm that sick.

Why don't neighbors just change tires with each other and both get the ones that seem to last the longest?
